And who can forget the look on my mom's face the morning after prom!

Hi ya Missy,
Guess what? We are finally SENIORS. One more year and we're out-a-here. What will I do next year without you and your guy stories?
(Boring time for me) Anyway lets not too soon since we do have one more great year ahead of us. For let's just remember all the great times (since 8th grade) behind and to come. Good Luck in the future especially in all you do

guy trouble:
non-dinners and non-dates, the go course and < Who am I dating
Well anyway I Love You!
Wish the best for you!
Just remember all our
in everything you do

Ch, do you remember

"You mean each class is started with a prayer." Jesse Fortson and a representative from his church spend time outside of the Chapel to talk about some of the experiences they shared during Clergy Visitation Day.

"Did you know I heard it through the grapevine!" Cobb Pearson grooves to the timeless beat of Marvin Gaye.

Time for a Closer Look

The 1994-95 school year will linger in the minds of all the students. Beginning in the fall, the students were busy with Homecoming Week. There was still time for attending all of the soccer, football, and softball games. Students were not disappointed by their teams' performances. Next came winter, BIG

SURPRISE! The winter months were highlighted by the school's many Christmas activities and the Christmas Dance. Student Appreciation Day and the Valentine's Dance added to the excitement. Spring brought Fun Night and Positive Attitudes Day. These activities gave the students a chance to really enjoy the school year.

"Ooooo, I look just like Buddy Holly!" says senior Cory Dockrell, but P.J. Peterson is no Little Richard. These seniors help to inspire their class into championship mode as they entered the Homecoming competitions. It is no surprise that the senior class was victorious this year.

"Oh yeah! Well, my tie is better than your tie!" Seniors Eric Ford and Lamar Alday engage in a fashion war before they participated in the Candlelight Carol Service.

"Do you want me to slam it? YES!" Freshman Edward Kendrick shows off his skills as he dunks from the free throw line. His superior ball handling abilities amazed the opposing players.

"It's a bird! A plane! No, it's the super literary competitors!" Literary team members Andrew Arcand, David Stahl, and Jesse Fortson bask in the glory of a MDS victory in competition.

"Mount de Sales is the best school in the area because of its variety of activities and the diversity of its students."

"Get fired up!" The student body cheers along with the cheerleaders at the Bonfire. The students' explosive school spirit is ignited during Homecoming Week. Their screaming cheers fueled the football team on to an outstanding victory. The bonfire capped a night of skits and family fun.

"C-A-V-A-L-I-E-R-S! Cavaliers are the best!" Mount de Sales' frenzied fans express their unconditional support for the basketball teams in the GISA state final games. With support ranging from Hawaiian shirts to Burger King crowns to smiley faces, the Cavaliers success came as no big suprise.

A Place to Spend Time

Mount de Sales Academy is a school with a unique atmosphere which provides its students with the opportunity to experience many interesting activities. At Mount de Sales, students can become involved in events not found in other schools. An example of an activity is Catholic Schools week..

Mount de Sales also has a strong athletic program. Most importantly, Mount de Sales, with a strong tradition in academics, is a National Blue Ribbon School of Excellence. This combination of activities, athletics, and academics produces an environment that helps to make Mount de Sales Academy a great place to learn.

"Where there is no love...put love...and there you will find love." Continuing the Mount de Sales tradition, Mercy Volunteer Meicha Card discovers how special it can be to share her time and attention with a child from the Children's Home. Sometimes it is hard to tell who is having the most fun.

"What did he say about us?" Senior basketball stars John Carey, C. J. Butts, and Wesley Cobb reflect on their senior season as they are honored for their outstanding efforts during the year.

"Ben, you are such a pushover!" Freshman Kevin McCauley is determined to end Freshmen Mike Kusar's and Ben Wilhelm's quest to prove what great building blocks they are.

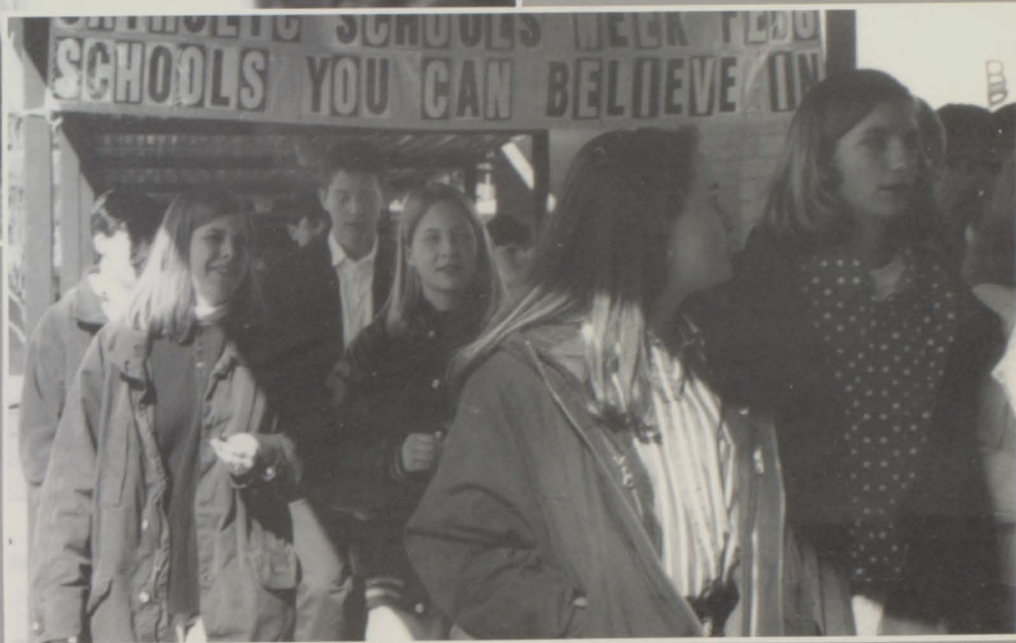

"I am so excited about this school year!" Senior Kristin Roman expresses her joy at being selected for the homecoming court. Fellow senior Cory Dockrell shares her enthusiasm as he escorts her to the stage.

"I really enjoy school at Mount de Sales. Here you look forward to coming and seeing your friends." -Junior Megan Cullinan

"Umm, umm, goood! Boy are we full now!" Seemed to be the unanimous opinion as the student body returned to homeroom after receiving donuts and apple juice courtesy of the student council. This was only one of the special activities that took place during Mount de Sales Catholic Schools Week.

"If you have to leave, leave with a smile!" Freshman Darci Davidson takes a second to absorb some more physical science knowledge before she has to change to her next class. She only wishes that she could spend more time in each class. With a smile like that, what teacher can make her leave their class?

"A good breakfast is a good way to start the morning!" National Junior Honor Society members Julia Hall and Carrie Frank are happy to get Sister Helen started off on the right foot.

"Frank, does this look right?" Junior Sarah Hope contemplates the consistency of the colors that she mixed as she works on the Jr.-Sr. Prom. Her mixing of colors was inspirational.

"I told you Jennifer-all the 1's were supposed to be blue!" Seniors Casey Washburn, Chad Timms, and Jennifer Deaton work on painting the school seal on the gym wall.

"Are you sure the Easter Bunny does it like this?" Freshmen Monica McMillian and Caitlin Hickey help assemble Easter baskets for SERVE as part of a freshman service project.

Student Life

Sign of the Times

The students of Mount de Sales participate in a wide range of activities both in and out of the classroom. Exciting classes, lunches, and bits of news all help create unique moments which sign 1994-95 as a time like none before in our students' lives.

"Is victory sweet or what?" Junior Aaron Reisse satisfies his little case of the munchies during the pie eating contest on Positive Attitudes Day.

"Just one of the guys!" A visiting Japanese student sits in a contemporary America class. These students visited during the Cherry Blossum Festival.

Rockin' Good Times

'Rock Around the Clock'

This year, Skit Night at MDS was a fun, exciting experience. After the skits, the cheerleaders led the way to the traditional Cavalier bonfire. On Friday night the MDS Cavaliers beat Brentwood. Then students came to the gym and partied 'til they dropped.

Pump, pump, pump it up! Melissa Kaplan and Jessica Stone pump up the spirit at the bonfire.

Elvis spotted at Mount de Sales! Philip Olivier boogies on down to the jail house rock in the spirit of the fifties during the junior skit helping them to win the skit competition.

"Look what I caught!" Homecoming Queen Brandi Cook dances with Junior Dameron Davis at the Homecoming Dance after watching the football team climb to victory over Brentwood. Everyone had a wonderful time.

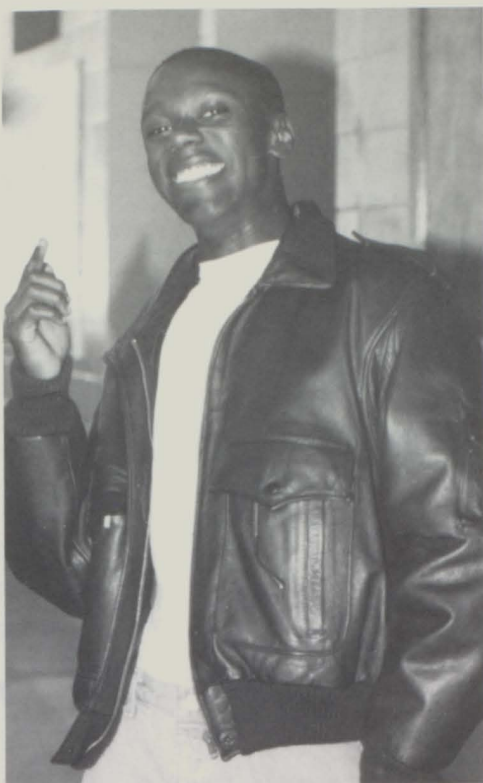

"You may now hug the bride..." Juniors Adrienne Cramer, in a nun's habit and Amiee Ridings, a glowing "bride" share a jubilant hug after an exciting evening at Bonfire/Skit Night during Homecoming week.

"Mr. Sandman, send me a queen!" Jason Balkcoln, a senior, and Theo Mack, also a senior, get in touch with their school spirit in the senior skit during Homecoming week.

"Zack the Mac!" Zack Matovou shows that he definitely has the 50's beat during the homecoming week activities. As most this year's senior class, Zac definitely has it "going-on."

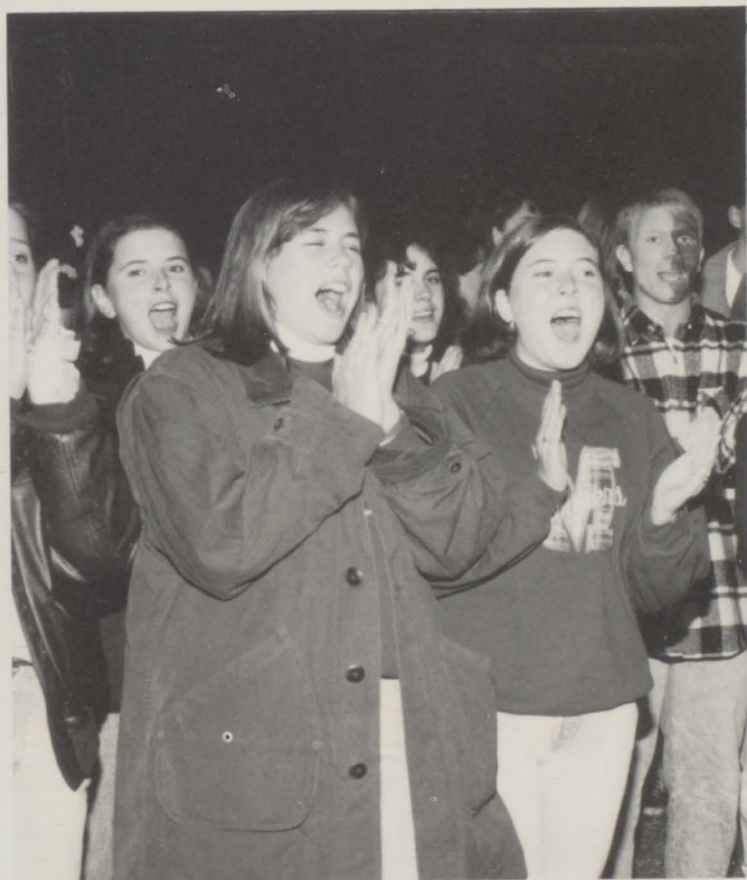

Well, not exactly an earth angel but close enough for us! Freshman Angie Cook demonstrates her superior hand jiving abilities and fashion tastes as she struts her stuff on Skit night.

"It was the greatest homecoming skit. The Seniors showed they could pull themselves together and demonstrate superior school spirit!"

— Danielle Cooper

"Sunday, Monday, Happy Days! Thursday, Friday, well you know the rest!" The Homecoming Court shows off their cheery smiles that contributed to their election to the prestigious court.

"Oh, I can't help falling in love with you!" Senior Shannon Wagner and her date spend quality time together, as well as party till they drop, at the Homecoming Dance. This wonderful pair was seen headed in the direction of the dance floor more times than we have space to say.

"Mount de Sales Rocks the House!" Seniors Jennifer Wisdom and Marie Brown lead the overcrowded "Spirit Section" of the stand while at the same time help to show their Cavalier football players that the MDS students are behind them all the way and boost the Cavs to victory.

Groovin'

This year's Homecoming Week was a memorable experience for the whole student body. This year's Homecoming theme was "Happy Days." The cafeteria was transformed into a 50's soda shop. A juke box played classic songs from the 50's. Then, we had dress-up day. It was "Happy Days" all over again.

"Born to Hand-Jive Baby!" Some Freshman girls show their talent at the Dance Competition.

"I really do know what I am doing!" Sophomore Danielle Faulk uses her knowledge of color coordination and the ability to color within the lines to decorate a poster for Homecoming.

"It's Shake and Bake! And I helped!" Juniors Donna Mizell and Jennifer Raffield show off their costumes on Dress-up Day. There really is still such thing as service with a smile.

"Beauty School drop out?" Freshman Pink Lady Patty Beiger shows off her attractive smile and displays her excitement over the out-of-dress code day during Homecoming.

"Back in my day . . ." Mrs. Dohn wears her MDS uniform for the students to see during the Mercy Day Assembly. Students enjoyed seeing the contrast from back then to now.

Day of Commemoration

Mercy Day is dedicated to honoring the Sisters of Mercy, and their founder, Mother Catherine McCauley. The theme of this year's Mercy Day was the transitional changes of the 50's and 60's to MDS. The speakers were Mrs. Dohn, a teacher at MDS, Bill Cassidy, one of the first boys to attend MDS, and Mrs. Eilenne Bell, one of the first black students at MDS. Each of these various speakers related memories from their school experiences at MDS during those years.

The tradition of celebrating Mercy Day with Sisters of Mercy has continued for generations.

"Hey you over there! Yes you . . ." Mr. Bill Cassidy holds the attention of the Mount de Sales student body with tales of the early days when Mount de Sales became coeducational. His delightful stories of the first locker room pranks amused many of the current students.

As I think back to when I first arrived at Mount de Sales . . ." Mrs. Eilenne Bell, current principal of Northeast High School, addresses the entire student body and relates her personal experience of being one of the first black students to attend Mount de Sales Academy.

Holy Hour

The Candlelight Carol Service is a tradition which celebrates the true meaning of Christmas at Mount de Sales. It was held at Saint Joseph's Church and combined biblical narratives of Christ's birth with traditional carols and musical selections by the chorus. After the service, a reception was held in the church hall. Refreshments were served and people were able to mingle and discuss the service.

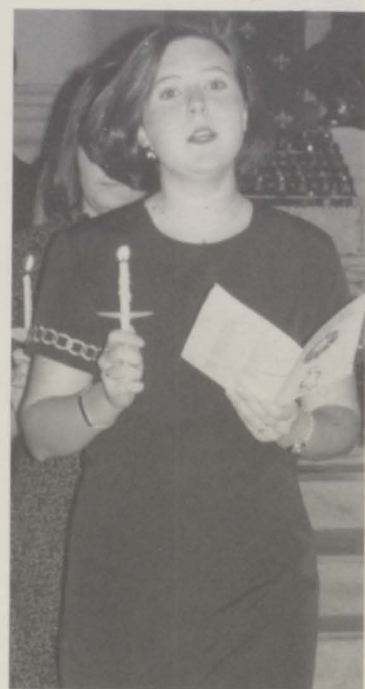

"...And then God said unto them..." Senior Amanda Mizell shares the story of Jesus' birth.

"O Holy Night, the stars are brightly shining..." The student body of Mount de Sales Academy gathers for the annual Candlelight Carol Service with parents and members of the community.

▲ "Mary, I hope that we remember which way to turn..." Seniors Mary Pope and Shannon Wagner pose excitedly before processing into St. Joseph's Church at the Candlelight Carol Service with the senior class.

◆ "Timing is of the greatest importance!" Father John Cuddy, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, cues senior cross bearer Melvyn Williams to lead the procession that begins the Candlelight Carol Service.

"Joy to the world, the Lord is come!" Senior Marie Brown marches up the aisle of St. Joseph's at the end of yet another wonderful MDS Christmas Celebration.

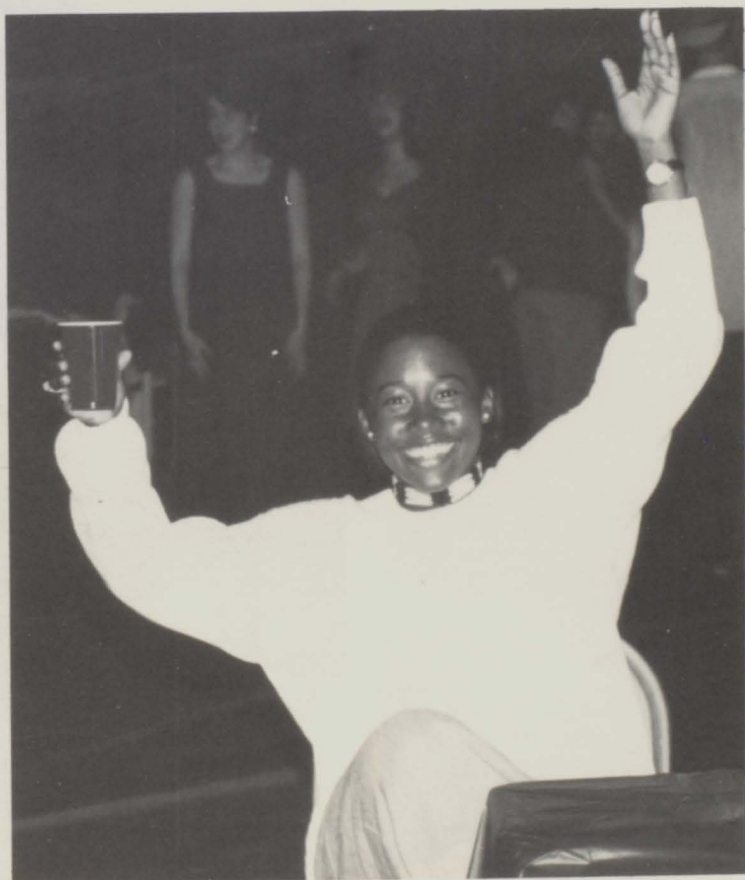

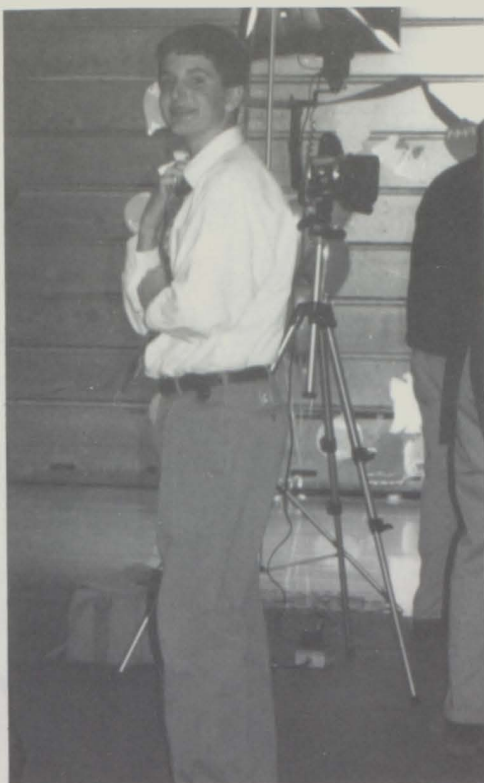

"Hey good lookin'! Whatcha got cookin?" Freshman Kevin McCauley straightens his tie and smiles in preparation for his date wall picture on the night of the big Christmas Dance.

Tune of the Times

On December nineteenth, the Christmas Dance was presented by the sophomores to the ninth through twelfth graders. A. J. the D.J. rocked the floor with a range of music that everyone could enjoy. The dance was a great way for the students to relax and socialize before the holidays.

The mood created by the decorations and music made this a dance to remember.

"Say 'Merry Christmas'!" Sophomores Bessie Van Derveer, Tim Alman, Chris Brenneman and his date take a break to catch their breath after dancing the night away at the Christmas Dance.

"My, my, my, Micheal ... what do we have here?" Sophomore Rachel Parish smiles mischievously as she gets ready to dance the night away at the Christmas Dance. Micheal McCauley thinks he needs a little help spelling 'YMCA' and figuring out this "new-fangled line dancing".

Gift Time

The MDS students took on many holiday projects to help the needy in the Macon area. They instituted a new project called Pennies from Heaven to buy Christmas presents for the often neglected teenagers. Along with the Tag-a-Toy drive, each student contributed money at the Thanksgiving Mass.

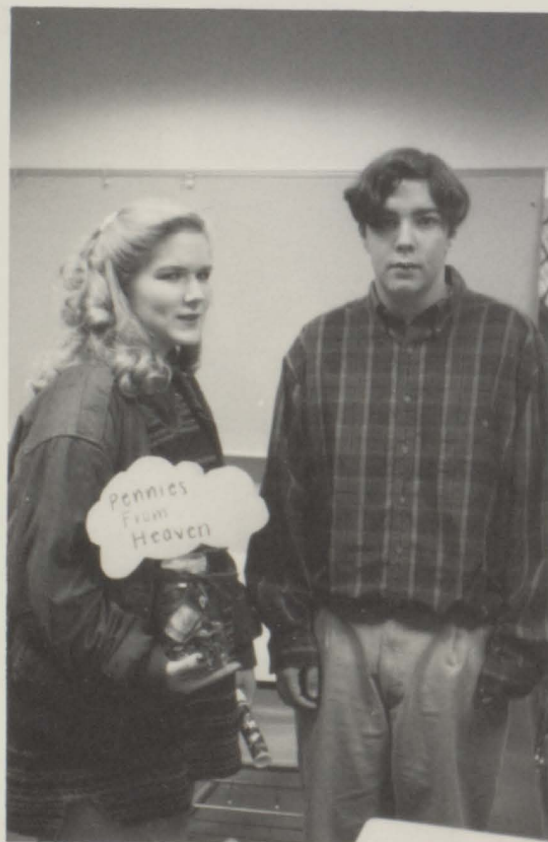

Kris Kringle? Christy Burress, Corlee Blum and Barbara Copeland wonder over this new puzzle.

"Ho, Ho, Ho! Oh no, Santa! You have been usurped!" Seniors Andy Wilhelm, Erin Wood, and Kriston Roman show their Christmas spirit and generosity before participating in the Christmas assembly

"We love the holidays!" Juniors Megan Cullinan and Sarah Hope show their before-the-holidays excitement during the Christmas assembly with a big hug. The assembly was the last event before vacation.

"I know you're not taking my picture!" Freshmen Stephanie Parker and Philip Cheshire exhibit their generosity and care for those in need by donating to the Student Council's Pennies From Heaven campaign.

"Oh what could it be?" Sister Mary Rosina expresses her delight at the faculty Christmas lunch when the teachers presented her with an early present.

"Boy, I'm glad I'm not in their shoes!" Coach Garvin looks on as Math Day participants compete in a portion of Math Day to see which team can score the highest number of points.

Mathematical Futures

Math Day at Mount de Sales is an annual happening that is a challenge for all good math students. The winning team consisted of senior Kathleen Carrigan, juniors Jamey Huser, Kelli Kelly, Melissa Alverson, Sarah Hope and Kelly Bagwell, sophomores Cobb Pearson, Christina Snyder, Will Sheehan and Wes Kurzen and freshmen Brooke Etchason and Warren Stramiello.

♥ "By George, I think we've got it!" Juniors Erricos Durham and Reeves Coates and sophomore Denise DeLoach listen as senior Kim Jackson patiently explains a Math Day problem.

▲ "Wait a minute ... Where was the on button again?" Senior Marianna LaVecchia and junior Blair Meyer try to solve a complex equation in the library on Math Day. On this day, six teams competed in three mathematical events to test their knowledge of higher mathematics.

◆ "But if you multiply this radical by the denominator of  $x$ , wouldn't you get ... wait, where was I?" Sophomore Toby Leslie and senior John Bruss work together industriously on a tough problem during the day-long competition. Many students participated in this annual event.

Our Week

The theme for Catholic Schools Week, celebrated February 6-10, was "Schools You Can Believe In." During this week, students and faculty participated in a variety of memorable activities such as Chris Hatcher Day, a prayer service, Teacher Appreciation Day, and Student Appreciation Day.

"Double Time!" Mrs. Dermatas and Mrs. Mead enjoy each other's company at the faculty lunch.

"Hey! Don't think we don't see you!" Freshman Kerry McLaurin and Edward Kendrick try for an extra doughnut on Student Appreciation Day. A light snack is just what they need for classes.

◆ "The Return of the Fabulous Five!" Sophomore Cheryl Marshall, junior Bobby Jo Rape, freshman Rebecca Merschat and Andrew Lizek, and senior Daniel Dodd relax a bit. Out of dress code is so comfortable.

"This message will self-destruct ..." Sr. Geraldine instructs junior Andrew Arcand on his reading before the school prayer service.

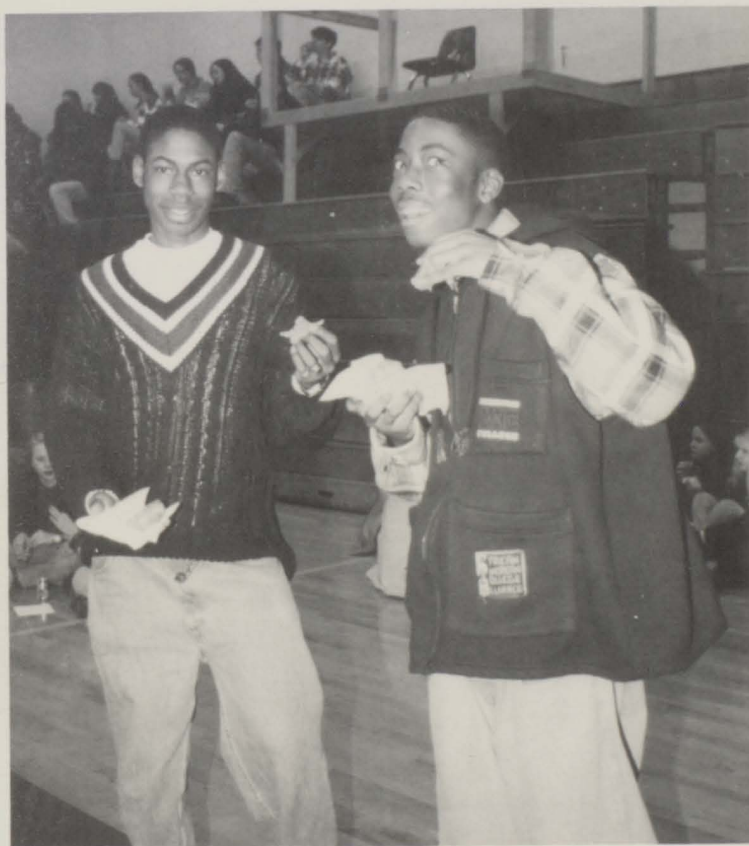

♥ "Those were good pancakes!" Sr. Rosina sits back contently after the delicious breakfast hosted by the Junior and Senior National Honor Societies on Teacher Appreciation Day.

♦ "An important person in Jesus' life . . ." Freshman Erica Talley delivers her introduction during the prayer service when students were reminded to bear the crosses of life patiently.

"Catholic Schools Week is a wonderful time to reflect on the importance of parochial schools to society. The activities help unite students in the common goal of appreciating what we have." — Melissa Brown ♥ "Hey look, you guys! It's a camera!" Jessica Stone, Bryant Stamps, Will Sheehan, and Nettie Pierce take a rest from dancing to chat and drink some punch at the Valentine's Dance.

♣ "And here's the celebrity himself . . . Chris Hatcher!" Chris Hatcher speaks with Sister Elizabeth after the Chris Hatcher Day assembly. Chris was awarded a plaque, and speakers such as Father Cuddy, Mr. Dockrell, and Sister Rosina gave an oral history of Chris' achievements.

♦ "Mmmmmmmmm, doughnuts, my favorite!" Senior Michael Bronson and sophomore Eric Morris enjoy the doughnuts and juice given out on Student Appreciation Day of Catholic Schools Week. Students were treated to this snack by student council and allowed to come out of dress code.

Our Past

This year's celebration of Black History Day consisted of speeches, dances, poetry interpretation, and singing from the MDS chorus. Many people participated in this commemoration of the culture and contributions of the African-American people to make the assembly a brilliant success.

"We had a dream!" Senior Kimberly Jackson reads a speech by journalist Theodore H. White.

"Every time I feel the spirit moving in my heart, I will pray!" The MDS chorus performs spirituals on Black History Day. The pianists were senior Megan Skinner and sophomore Shelli Hill.

▲ "Please, oh please show us those pearly whites!" Freshman Lakeesa Butler and sophomore LaShae Primus are all smiles after performing with the Mount de Sales Choraliers at the Black History program.

◆ "What distinguished gentlemen!" Seniors Zack Matovu and Melvyn Williams take time out of their hectic schedules for a picture after participating in the Black History program during Black History month.

"I rise, I rise, I rise!" Senior Merita Evans gives a stirring dramatic interpretation of Maya Angelou's poem "I Rise." Some students appeared in full African dress.

"Four score and seven years ago . . ." Megan Claire Hester performs a portion of A Streetcar Named Desire as she competes in the Girls Oral Interpretation competition on Literary Day.

Hour of Inspiration

On Literary Day, literary competitions were the format for the day. The winners were: Seniors — Kathleen Carrigan, Jason Hutto, Zack Matovu, Marie Brown, Megan Skinner, Becky Sizemore, and Marianna LaVecchia; Juniors — David Stahl, Jamey Huser, and Quintress Leslie; Sophomores

—Shelli Hill and Mac Oppy; Freshmen — Rebecca Merschat, Lakeesa Butler, and Jesse Fortson.

"Don't even think about looking on my paper!" As the competition intensifies, juniors Reeves Coates and Erin Parish concentrate while competing in the essay portion of Literary Day.

♦ "Wait! Memory lapse! Boy or monkey?" Senior Marie Brown, excited by the victories of the literary team, helps junior David Stahl reach new and greater heights at Weslyan during Region Literary. Marie competed in Girl's trio and David Stahl wrote in the Boy's critical essay.

Tiny Time

There's always something going on in the Middle School. This year, the eighth graders and Justin Golding worked to put together Grandparent's Day. Middle schoolers joined in the excitement during the St. Patrick's Day party. Students enjoyed activities especially the dunking booth on Positive Attitudes Day.

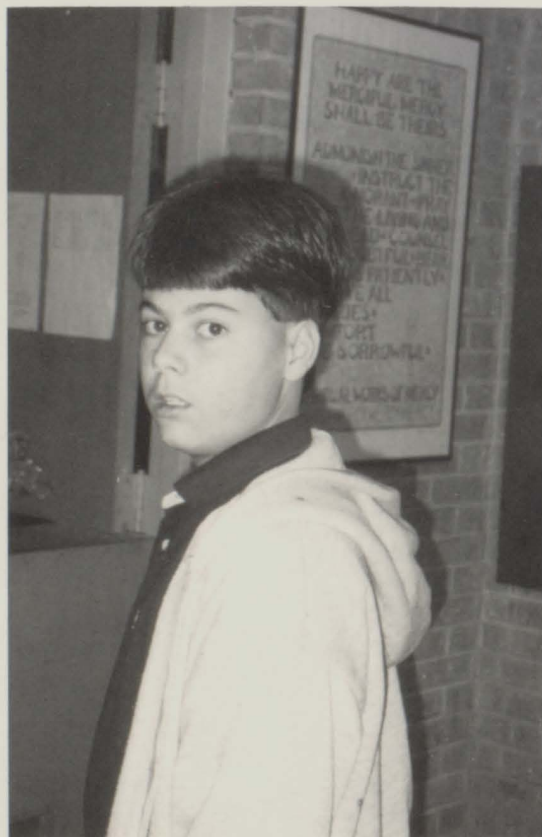

"I'm proud to be a middle schooler!" Chrissie Waterman proclaims her school pride.

"It's a hard knock life!" After a hard day of class, seventh graders Janna Mason, Trey Brown, and Travis Keen discuss the woes that being a middle schooler can bring as they head home.

▲ "What's going on up there?" As the lesson in the front of the room begins, Emily Pritchett leans over to quietly ask classmate John Cossens if he could move his desk over so she can clearly see the teacher.

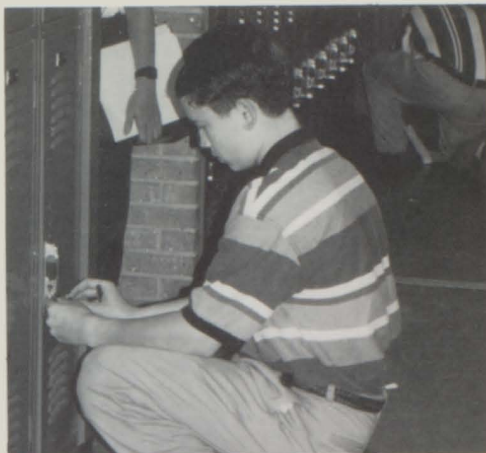

◆ "Don't sneak up on me like that!" While heading to his locker, eighth grader John Michael Howell turns around to find a waiting camera. The middle school has it's own building, Saint Joseph's Hall.

▲ "Once upon a time . . ." Kelly Dessart competes at the Middle School Literary Day in the area of oral interpretation. This year many students participated in this event."

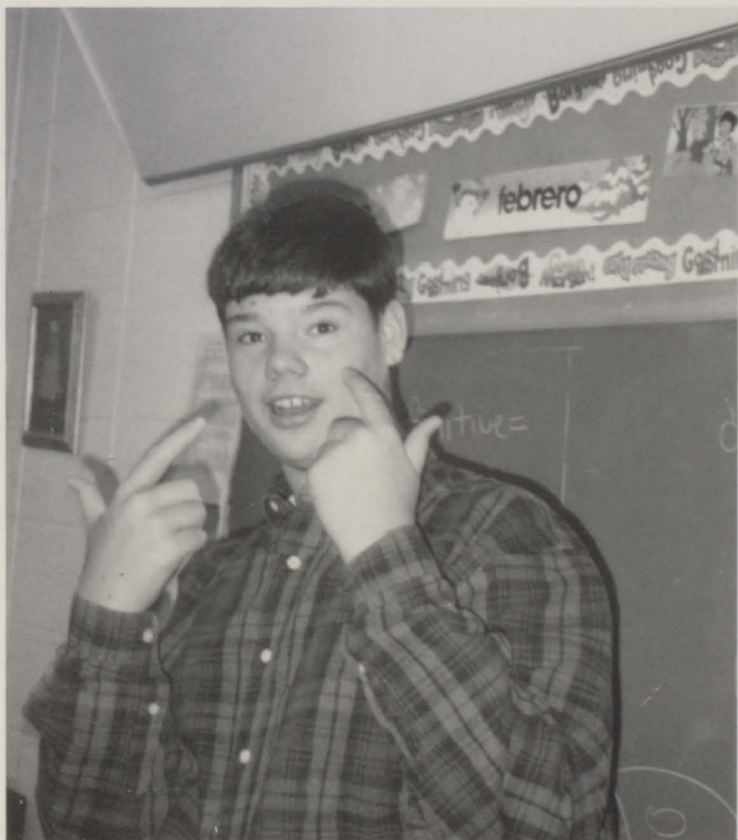

"I was just mindin' my own buisness . . ." explains eighth grader Brinson Orr looking guilty in the locker room of St. Joseph's Hall as he waits for the bell to ring for his next class.

♦ "24 . . . 6 . . . Then what?" As seventh grader Ian Stoepplewerth struggles with his lock, other middle schoolers walk to class with friends. Lockers present new problems to many students.

"It's really fun. The work is kind of hard, and the days are long, but I like my teachers. They really help you if you don't understand. I've made a lot of new friends because people are so friendly." — Paul Elliot ♥ "Brrrrrr, this wind is chilly!" A group of seventh grade girls talk and laugh at break while they eat and try to stay warm in the bitter cold winter wind in the Middle School yard.

▲ "You are staring at me aren't you? Aren't you?" Boasting his "I am the man" attitude, eighth grader Byron Whitener displays, in one of his daily classes, the handsome eyes that could make anyone swoon and the face that will one day be very well known and famous world-wide.

Fun Night

Fun Night '95 was a tremendous success. The night began with a spaghetti dinner followed by an evening of fun and games. Some of the more popular events were the Dizzy Izzy, with a record 17 falls, Bust-a-balloon and a new competition, the Sticky Nose relay. Everyone had a wonderful time.

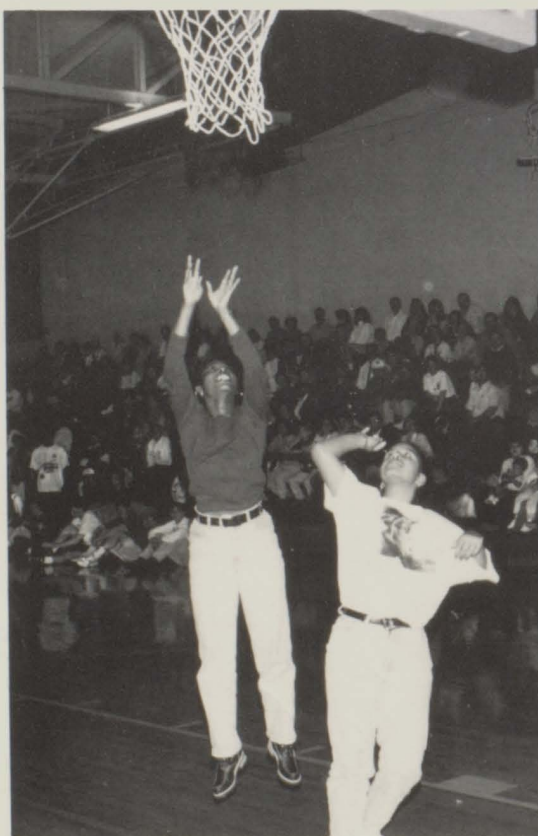

"Hurry, Brook! Blow harder!" Brook Etchason participates in the Bust-a-Balloon relay.

"Are these earrings really me?" asks junior T.J. Rowland as Frank Mummert helps him dress for the occasion in the hilarious Dress-a-Girl relay helping the junior class to victory.

▲ "I think they can, I think they can, I think they can!" Sophomore Shelli Hill seems to will the sophomore class to victory as she watches her classmates participate and cheers them on from the bleachers.

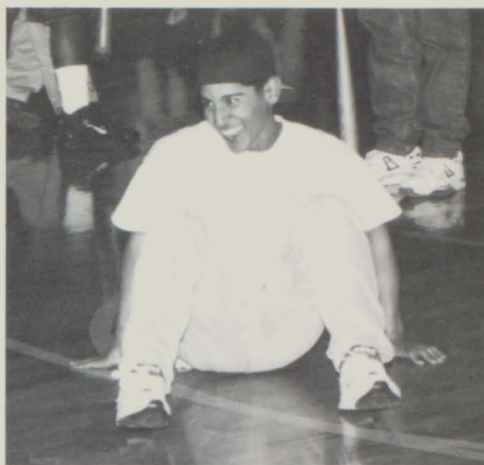

♦ "Swoosh! And there's two points for both of the teams!" Senior Merita Evans jumps up to shoot a football into the basket as Shannon Parish shoots from close behind her in an attempt to get a basket first.

"All dressed up and no place to go!" Eighth grader Jeremiah Helms prances down the gym floor, flaunting his new and beautiful garb.

"Wait a minute! Where does this go again?" asks seventh grader Mary Catherine Smith hurriedly as she rushes to be the first to finish "dressing" in the Dress-a-Boy competition.

♦ "Wait a minute! I thought the line was over there!" Sophomore Gus Ferrera communes with the floor after taking a humorous spill during Dizzy Izzy, in which many followed his example.

"The new games were interesting and gave us many opportunities to laugh and have a good time. All in all, it gave students a chance to enjoy each other's company in a ridiculously funny environment." — Danielle Faulk

"Seniors are definitely the best!" comments Jennifer Deaton to Kim Jackson as they get ready to cheer on the participants in the next race with their classmates on Fun Night.

♦ "I finally popped the balloon!" Eighth grader Andrea Tice gives an inaudible sigh of relief as she quickly gets off the floor to run to the end of her line in the Bust a Balloon race. This first race started off an evening of fun and laughter to remember for a lifetime.

♦ "The Great Pyramids of Mount de Sales ..." The excited juniors quickly build the Eighth Wonder of the World as they proudly complete their pyramid on Fun Night. The pyramid race was just one of the events in which the juniors excelled and which eventually gave them first place.

Spend Time

Friends are an important part of Mount de Sales. Everyone has that close-knit circle of people with whom they eat lunch every day or just "hang out" with on weekend nights. Long talks, shared secrets, hugs and understanding are the ingredients that make really wonderful and lasting friendships.

"I just saw King Kong!" Theo Mack and C.J. Butts do some shopping at Universal Studios.

"Who says flower children had to live in the sixties?" Sophomores Denise Deloach, Brandy White, junior Amy Ridings, and sophomore Meghan Bradley enjoy time with each other.

▲ "Bop shoo bop shoo bang!" Celebrating homecoming week and their newfound friendship, seventh graders Sherry Long and Rebecca Raffield sing a happy song while they take a walk to the "Bee-Bop Cafe."

♦ "We'll be friends forever!" While taking a casual stroll back to class through the faculty parking lot, seventh graders Anna Armstrong and Lindsey Mumert take time out to talk about their homework.

"We've made a human totem pole!" Juniors Amy Williams, Sarah Hope, Megan Cullinan and sophomore Leigh Cabasaras have some fun clowning around after a tennis match.

"Pop Quiz: Can you tell which twin is which for the grand prize?" Sophomores Jennifer and Mary Beth Harrison show off their sisterly love and their beautiful dresses on prom night.

"All friends have fights, but if the two of you are really good friends, you get through it together and your friendship becomes stronger because of it." — Kelly Peterman and Samantha Stinson

♣ "Peace, love, and flower power be unto you and all your friends . . ." Taking a break from all the activities on Positive Attitudes Day, sophomore Brandi "Supergirl" Taylor and juniors Steven "John Lennon" Moss and Andrew "Elton" Arcand relax, refuel, and revive themselves.

♦ "We're just like sisters, but without the fights!" Sophomore Brandi Carr and junior Jessica Perez show that best friends can have a very positive influence on each other. Positive Attitudes Day gave friends a chance to socialize, play games and have fun while at school.

Day Time

Life at MDS is a plus in all students' lives. The day begins with a prayer, as do most other activities. The day continues as friends eat and talk together and classes are taught. There is a wide range of extracurricular activities which provides many possibilities for involvement.

"I hope I studied enough for the Chemistry test!" Jennifer Powell prepares for class.

"Go Mount de Sales Cavaliers!" During a pep rally, the senior class cheers heartily in the hope of yet another victory for the football team. Somehow, senior year spells spirit.

♣ "Where in the book did you find the answer to the question?" The search through the book ending fruitlessly, Katy Owenby enlists the help of classmate Heather Bonham in her quest for the correct answer.

♣ "Hey, wasn't that your ride that just went by a minute ago?" asks freshman Jon Howard of classmate Britton Lockhart as they wait together to go home after a long and exhausting day at school.

"You're sure cheerful for a Monday morning!" Walking to class from the senior parking lot, Shonte Bentley and Theo Mack smile with the memories of a pleasant weekend.

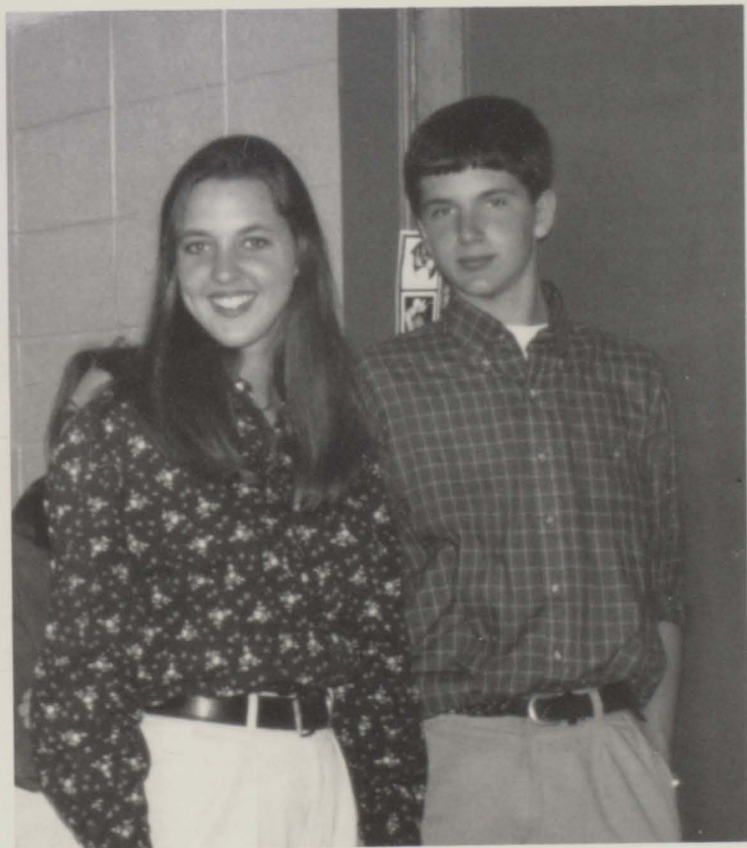

"Do I really have to touch this frog?" asks sophomore Layla Keaney worriedly as she listens to Mrs. Dermatas explain the enjoyable science of dissecting in her biology class.

♦ "Hey, Mr. Midkiff, just one hint?" The famous puzzles of Mr. Midkiff's room defeat many worthy opponents but junior Bobby Jones refuses to be vanquished by the mystical triangle.

"Life at MDS has been very inspiring. The classes are great and the teachers are really nice. There's just so much to do that the year really flies by. This school is cool like that."
— Brooke Benford and Betsy Schnell

♥ "It's a bird ... It's a plane ... It's ... Lamar!" Walking to art, senior Lamar Alday is the recipient of more than a few laughs as he parades down the breezeway with a car door.

♣ "Quintress Leslie — beauty, brains, and all the boys. How does she do it?" While waiting for their rides, eighth grader Jojo Cadrey and freshmen Franklin Mack and Carlos Denson seek upperclassmen advice from junior Quintress Leslie. Marq Sams even gets down on bended knee.

♦ "Almost at the front of the lunch line ... At last!!!" After a long wait in the cafeteria lunch line, sophomore Kristina DeMichael is excited about finally getting some food. Freshman Kevin McCauley seems less than thrilled with how long it has taken him to get his food.

Bond Time

Every year, the preparations for the Junior-Senior Prom are done by the junior class. This year, the theme was Embrace the Sky and the decorations were designed by Sarah Hope and Frank Mummert. The gorgeous backdrop, datewall and other decorations really gave the gym a romantic atmosphere.

"Don't pop that balloon!" Junior Massimo Danese helps blow up balloons for the prom.

◆ "Mr. Midkiff! It's the man jumping over the moon ... on a ladder!" The junior class prom crew works diligently on the decorations, in the form of hanging a stuffed Man-in-the-Moon, designed by Sarah Hope.

"Don't come any closer ... I'm armed!" Junior Donna Mizell shows off her taping skills as she aids the streamer crew who transformed the gym into a "heaven on earth."

"As Mayor of the Munchkin City, In the County of the Land of Oz ... " As he blows up balloons for the prom, junior Scott Gulick discovers the funny things helium can do to his voice.

♦ "Two hard working guys! What more could a girl ask for?" Sarah Hope has a good time clowning around with friends Michael Cullinan and Frank Mummert while hard at work on the prom.

"Working on prom was great. There was a lot of comraderie ... as we worked hard toward a common goal. Everyone had a wonderful time. The prom went really well and the decorations and backdrop were excellent."

— Kelli Kelley

"One foot, two foot, three foot, four ... " The prom decorations really grow to humongous proportions as juniors Michael Cullinan and Frank Mummert get help from their teachers.

♣ "How's the weather up there?" asks junior Melissa Brown as she and some of her classmates prepare the gym for an enchanting evening of smiles, sequins and memories. All that hard work certainly paid off as the guests were awed by the ethereal beauty of the backdrop.

♦ "Wait, I still don't get it. Could you please explain how this thing works one more time?" Blowing up balloons is no problem for junior Kelli Kelley, but her friend Tee Epps seems to be having a bit more trouble with the task.

Two Step

Junior-Senior is one of the most thrilling and exciting nights of the MDS student's life. The decorations, the music, the pictures, the friends, and that special someone . . . These things all play an important role in making prom night one of the most memorable and romantic evenings ever.

▲ "Look at the birdie!" Seniors Eric Ford, Kim Utley and Amy Hester pose on prom night.

"We feel pretty. Oh, so pretty . . ." Smiling happily, Senior Christy Price and junior Amy Hall smile as they enjoy the excitement of a glittering prom night at the newly adorned MDS gym.

▲ "Come on and dance to the music!" Senior Jay Roberts dances to the beat of a song at the annual Junior-Senior Prom where everyone who came had a wonderful time and enjoy the company of their friends.

◆ "Picture perfect in every way!" Senior Casey Washburn and his date strike a lovely pose against the heavenly backdrop for a very memorable moment before having a wonderful time at the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

"Where did she go?" Frank Mum-mert seems to have lost his date, for the moment, at the Junior-Senior Prom. Hopefully his date will appear before the night is over.

"Watch your step!" Senior Kelly Bloodworth and date make a lovely couple as they walk carefully down the lead out ramp ready to dance the night away and mingle with friends.

♦ "Pump! Pump! Pump it up, Reeves!" Junior Reeves Coates kicks up his heels and gets into the groove as he and his date jam to the beat of the latest tunes out on the dance floor.

"The prom was better than I'd ever imagined it could be. The atmosphere was enhanced by the wonderful decorations and seeing everyone dressed up was fun. I'll have lots of great memories from it." — Jennifer Wisdom

♣ "You wanna go, where everybody knows your name ..." Senior Daniel Dodd and Cheryl Marshall take a brief moment from a night of dancing to propose a toast to each other and relax for a bit before returning to the dance floor. This rest will give them energy to dance all night.

Think Up!

Positive Attitudes Day brought out the best in everyone as the students enjoyed a day of many activities. The morning began with a senior breakfast and a meditation for the underclassmen. Students spent the rest of the day competing in games and relaxing in their comfortable weekend attire.

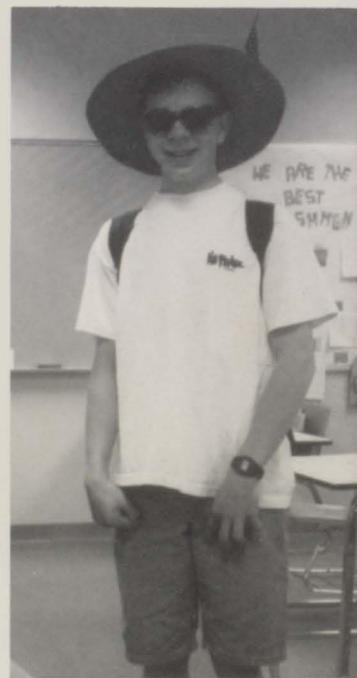

▲ "Did it hit you?" asks Stephanie Wilson as she competes in the water balloon toss.

"Pssst, pass it on!" Sophomores Cindy Howell, Mandy Stevens and Sara Emig talk to each other while relaxing in the warm afternoon sun on the trapezoid during Positive Attitudes Day.

▲ "Quiet! Artist at Work!" Sitting patiently, seventh grader Molly Holfner waits quietly to see the beautifully finished product on her cheek as senior Christy Price concentrates on doing a good job.

▶ "Living in a van, down by the river." Elected as representatives of the junior class, Jennifer Powell and Daxton Taylor present the class jingle, composed by Mr. Brooking's homeroom, to the student body.

"We represent the Lollipop kids ... " Parading in front of the camera and his classmates, freshman Adam Deperrodil shows off his Positive Attitudes Day attire.

"Come on, come on, my grandmother can throw better than that!" Coach Turner has a good time taunting the crowd as he waits for the person who can knock him into the cold water below.

◆ "No, I want the ball!" At one of the Positive Attitudes basketball games, seventh grader Pierce Hale and ninth grader Edward Kendrick battle for control of the ball during tip-off.

"We did lots of work through Student Council for Positive Attitudes Day and I think that everyone had a good time. The pie eating contest was a hit and almost everyone took a jump on the velcro wall." — Mandy Schmitt ♥ "Help! I've fallen and I can't get up!" Coach Jan Gray has a little bit of difficulty getting back on her feet after taking a fall off of the velcro wall on Positive Attitudes Day.

♣ "Whheeeeeeee! A patch of clover!" Although Positive Attitudes Day was a wonderful experience, students were exhausted but happy. After a day of fun, games and music, juniors Sandy Reddy and Jomin Knight and sophomore Campbell Austin are a "rolee pollee trinity of smiles."

◆ "A good old-fashioned, country breakfast is what I like to start my day!" Seniors Andy Wilhelm and John Carey enjoy each other's company as they start their positive day the right way, with a good breakfast and the company of friends. Seniors enjoyed this start to the day.

Movin' Up

Each year, Mount de Sales has a special Moving Up Day Ceremony to recognize the juniors as the new senior class. Juniors take part in the mass and Father Cuddy gives them a special blessing. The ceremony helps to put the students in a proper frame of mind for the upcoming year at M.D.S.

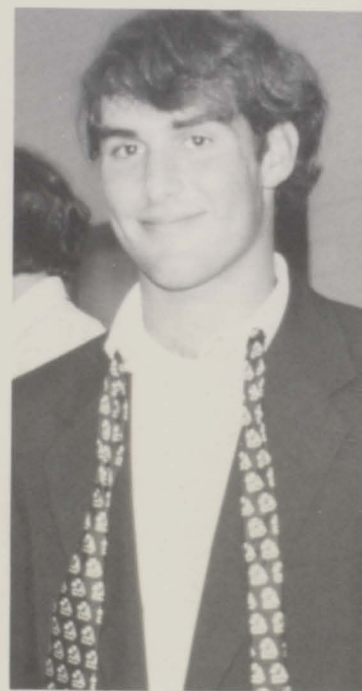

◆ "We pray to the Lord " During the Moving Up Day mass, junior Anna Claire Wimberly reads.

◆ "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit " As the Moving Up Day ceremony draws to a close, Arquelius Harris receives a special blessing from Father Cuddy.

◆ "Beautiful Savior, Lord of the nations. Son of God and Son of Man." As the Ascension Thursday service continues, junior chorus members serenade the assembly with a beautiful and poignant melody.

◆ "I still can't believe we're really almost seniors!" Laughing exuberantly, Megan Cullinan, Blair Meyer and Jason Maloy express their great joy at being, finally, the seniors of Mount de Sales.

◆ "Well, I'm sure glad that that's all over!" says Cody Hale with sigh of relief and a smile as he unwinds and gets comfortable after a long morning of "moving up."

♥ "Then, not knowing what else to do, I " In the ballroom scene, sophomores Chris Brennaman and Shelli Hill discuss the origins and meanings of life while they wait for their cue.

Tomorrow's Actors

My Fair Lady, this year's spring musical, was a great success. Directed by Mr. Justin Golding, who played the lead role, and held at Theater Macon, the play was a grand experience for everyone concerned. Senior Mari-anna LaVecchia was the student di-rector and stage manager, while many other students portrayed the different characters. Bravo to all participants!

♥ "All I want is a room somewhere " The entire cast of My Fair Lady takes a final curtain call in their wonderful costumes after putting on a thrilling performance at Theater Macon.

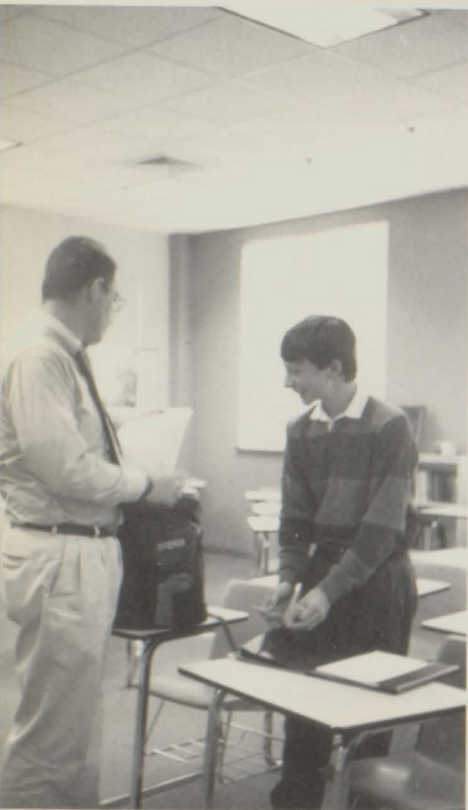

♣ "I'm getting married in the mornin'!" Belting out her feature song, freshman Lisa Reeves leads the other actors in a rousing rendition of "I'm Getting Married in the Morning" as she portrays that good old common dustman, Alfred P. Dolittle, father of Eliza Dolittle.

♦ "Here, hold this for just a minute, please." Shedding her silvery cape, senior Becky Sizemore, playing the part of Eliza Dolittle, makes her breathtaking entrance onto the stage for the ballroom scene and, in doing so, wins the hearts of all members of the audience.

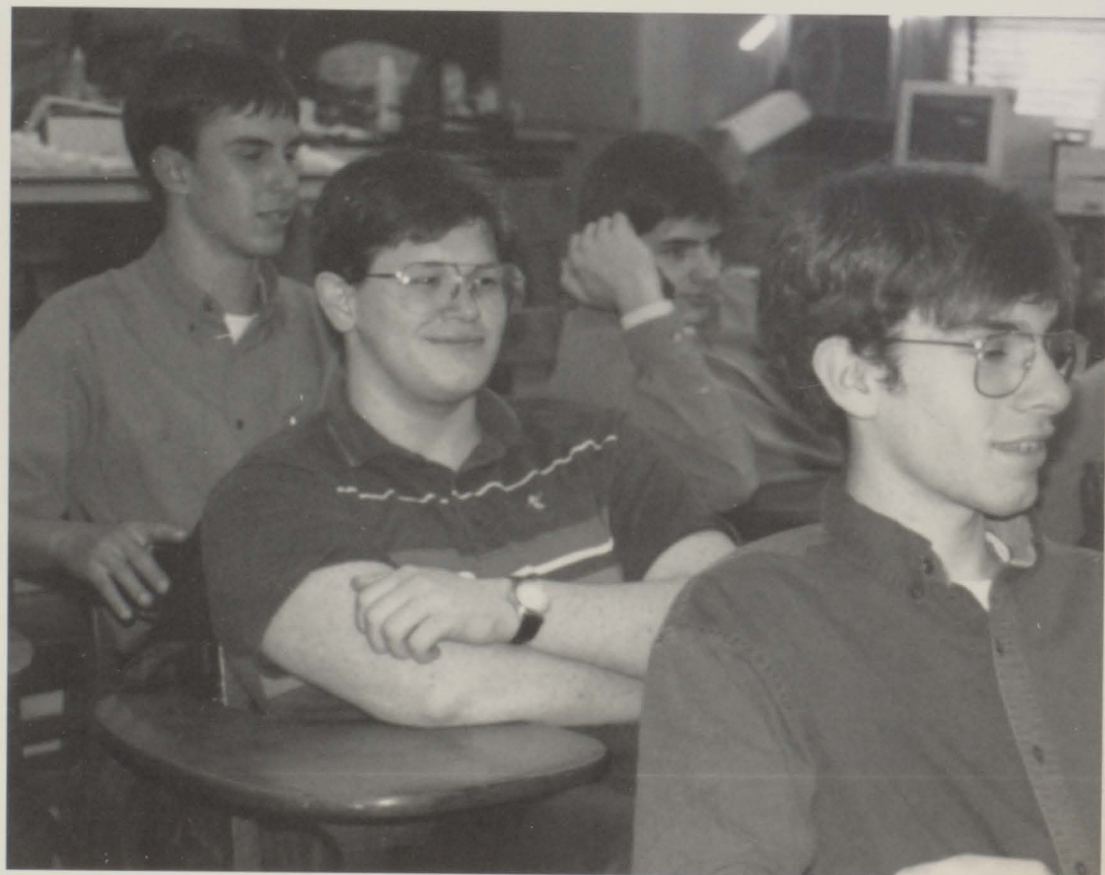

"Merry Christmas!" Student council members and Mrs. Bailey, director of SERVE, stop sorting presents for a moment and pose with some of the presents that were donated by the students.

"Am not! Are too! Am not..." Debator Warren Stramiello and moderator Mr. Dockrell plan out some last minute debating strategies before leaving to compete in the Region Tournament.

"Not to toot our own horns, but..." Band members take a breather between performances. Their music inspired the crowd to stand up and cheer the football team on to a victory.

"Battle of the minds and guess who's winning!" Science bowl team members practice their reflexes and answering abilities so that they can be quick and nimble during their many competitions. Practice means success!!

Clubs

Time to Serve

Clubs are a way for students to get involved in activities that benefit their community and their school. Whether it is by participating in a Key Club Adopt-a-Spot or in publishing the school paper, students get a feeling of satisfaction for the work they do. These organizations present leadership opportunities as well.

"She's stalking another one!" Yearbook photographer Marianna LaVecchia sneaks up on a victim. Her technique may be different but she gets the job done.

"Hello, how may we help you?" Principal Sister Rosina and Key Club officers stand ready to serve the teachers their food at the Key Club sponsored faculty breakfast.

Leading the Way

The 1994-95 Student Council worked on many successful activities for the M.D.S. students. It all began in September with "Happy Days," our wild and crazy Homecoming week. The student council representatives also coordinated the fruit sale in order to raise money for our school. Student Council was also in charge of bringing us that exciting day of fun and games we all know as Positive Attitudes Day. The representatives put in many hours of hard work. Sophomore Brooke Benford remarked, "Student council requires lots of work, but I really enjoyed helping with all the fun activities. It's definitely worth it!!"

Without the leadership of Student Council, M.D.S. wouldn't be able to continue its tradition of excellence.

"I never knew making records could be so much fun!" exclaims Megan Hester to her helper Jessica Perez.

"Are you sure this is the last one I have to draw?" Senior Zack Matovu jokingly asks Mrs. Timms.

I love student council! It gives me a chance to really get involved with activities at school.

Members: 40 Students
12 seniors, 12 juniors,
6 sophomores, 6 freshmen, 4 senior officers

Moderator: Mrs. B. Timms

Meetings:

Approximately 35 times
a year at 7:30 every Wednesday.

Extra hours:

Approximately 20 hours
on activities other than meetings.

Goals:

The student council improved the stage as a service project.

"We are going to make it THIS BIG !" says Student Council President, Andy Wilhelm to Vice-President Kathleen Carrigan.

Keys to the Future

During the 1994-1995 school year, the MDS Key Club worked hard to help the community and the school. They started off the year with their annual induction ceremony where new members were formally initiated. Then it was time to get out the soap and water for the car washes. During the Christmas season, the Key Club participated in many activities.

Many members got involved by ushering for the Nutcracker and also by hosting a district meeting where they got a chance to meet other Key Club members in the Macon area. They also helped out at school by sponsoring Teacher Appreciation Day.

Overall, the Key Club ended up with a successful year and helped our school and community at the same time.

^ "Let me get that for you, ladies!" Junior Frank Mummert sets a good example for his fellow Key Clubmates by cleaning up.

v "Wait, what about this?" Megan Skinner and Michael Cullinan bring up an important point at a Key Club meeting.

The Key Club activities this year provided a great opportunity for students to get involved with their community.

Top Ten Reasons to Join Key Club...

10. You love to work in your community and school.
9. You have a yearning to beautify M.D.S.
8. Working hard is your greatest passion.
7. You want to see the Nutcracker and by ushering you can see it for free!
6. You love children and visiting the childrens' hospital is the perfect activity for you.
5. Meetings during activity period give you something to do.
4. You think it's a great club!
3. You are a great salesperson and selling coupon books is a cinch.
2. You love washing cars on Saturday.
1. You know you're a key to the future.

"Shhhh, you guys! I think someone is coming!" Mike Kusar, Keith Hatcher and Chris Allen stand guard outside of the door to the secret Key Club meeting.

Sharing Our Time

Mercy Volunteers have served the Macon community for over four years now. This organization, under the supervision of Sr. Helen, offers many sharing opportunities at the Georgia Academy for the Blind, Booker T. Washington Community Center, Pet Therapy, and The Middle Georgia Food Bank. This year, Mercy Volunteers also offered their services to the Children's Center.

These volunteer programs provide the students with a chance to develop their many talents and skills. It also gives them a chance to put a little joy in someone else's daily life. Mercy Volunteers reflect those ideas and values that represent Mount de Sales.

> "Puppy love is the best kind of love." Mercy Volunteer Kelli Kelly introduces a nursing home resident to her furry little friend.

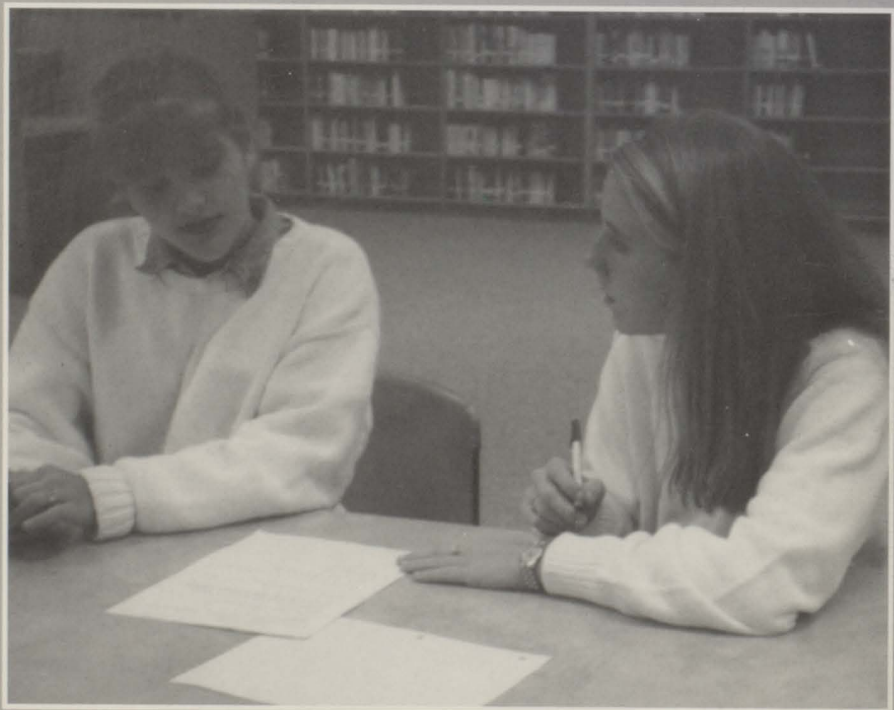

^ "So you see, it's not that hard to understand." Sr. Helen explains the next upcoming event to the Mercy Volunteers.

v "Do you understand now, Morgan?" Chelsea McRae discusses a volunteer activity with Morgan Stone.

It was lots of fun and we all love volunteering in the community and helping less fortunate children.

SADD Times

This school year MDS proudly founded a new club which serves to heighten the students' and faculty's awareness of the dangers of drunk driving and substance abuse. This club is called SADD which stands for Students Against Drunk Driving. SADD has monthly meetings and is moderated by Ms. Amos, Mrs. Bentley, Mrs. Dohn, Mr. McLachlan, and Coach Pierce. In order to promote a drug free environment, the moderators held a "concert" where students talked about the dangers and problems that occur from drugs and alcohol. SADD is dedicated to educating students about substance abuse.

< "Come on, Skipper! Sign here on the 'X'!" Chad Timms convinces Lamar Alday to join SADD, just as other students did.

SADD is the coming together of young people, all promoting the same cause- a safer tomorrow and a happier today.

-Monica McMillan

Making Our Point

The Mount de Sales debate team was very successful this year. They competed in three tournaments, including the Region Tournament, where they took third place. With only one senior, this year's team was inexperienced. But the newcomers learned fast. "We had inexperienced debaters this year, but they showed tremendous improvement throughout the season and we are expecting great things out of them next year," said debate team coach Mr. Dockrell. Our debate program truly is a source of pride for MDS, and we will be looking forward to more great things in the future.

"First thing you need to do is..." Senior Gary Johnson offers some senior leadership to the young debater, Kevin McCauley.

^"So what exactly are you doing?" Frank Mummert looks questioningly at Cindy Dockrell as she sifts through some papers.

√ "It says so right here!" Adam Siler instructs Warren Stramiello on the finer points of debating.

It's great to see that there are a lot of young people who are still interested and willing to represent MDS.

-Gary Johnson

Adding Time

On your mark... get set... ADD! The math team is composed of students who excel in math and pass the Georgia Math League Test. In order to remain a member, students must take a monthly math test which is composed of five difficult math problems. Mount de Sales math club participated in math tournaments with other schools, where they captured first and second place awards.

"I love math, its fun and challenging," says sophomore Mike Chow.

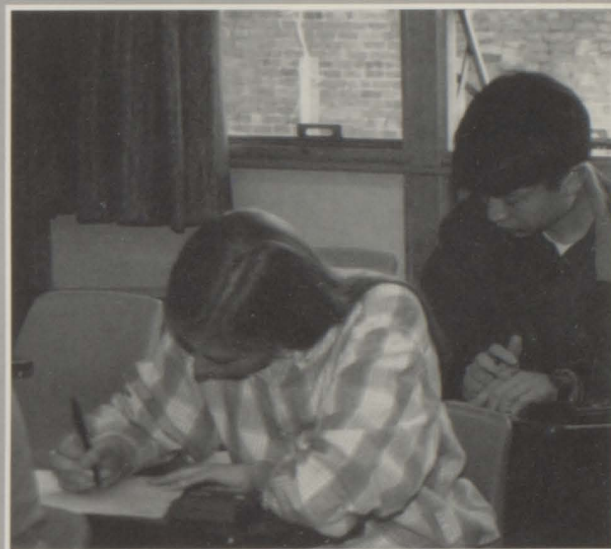

During these tournaments Math Team members display the keen analytical skills for which Mount de Sales members are known to possess.

"People! People! Listen here!" Mr. Garvin administers the Georgia Math League test to the Math Team members.

A mathematical mind is a great thing to waste...

It's Quiz Time!!

The 1994-1995 Science Bowl team had another successful season. Their coach is Ron McLachlan. The team is really two teams of four students which compete independently in science meets.

The team meets weekly after school for an hour and also during activity periods. Each member possesses these talents critical for being a good competitor:

a quick mind, alertness, and a fast trigger finger.

"I really enjoy science bowl. I learned a lot and had fun competing," commented Katy Chow.

The Science Bowl Team enjoys the challenge of competing and will work hard for next year.

"Have you caught any fish lately?"

Kelly Bagwell, David Stahl, and Brinda Ramaiya talk about their favorite weekend pastimes.

"Look what we won!" Andy Wilhelm, Brad Smith, Kathleen Carrigan, and Melvyn Williams display the trophy they won.

"The question is 'What is Carbon?'. Senior Patt Dugas remembers to word his answer in the form of a question for Science Bowl.

Science Bowl was a great experience. I learned the "art of the trivial finger" from Melvyn.

The Think Tank

Led by moderator Ron McLachlan, the Academic Team had a very successful year. The team practiced after school and during activity periods. The practices paid off as they had a successful season.

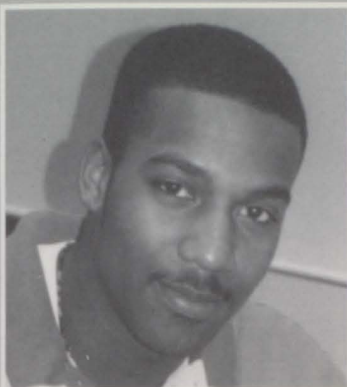

The Academic Bowl team competed on WMAZ-TV's

Teen Challenge. The Mount de Sales students could see their team on Saturday mornings when the Teen Challenge matches were aired.

"It's a great way to learn new things and it's fun being around people who like to learn." Kelly Bagwell commented.

Dedicated team members and a thirst for knowledge make the team strive for the best.

"Could you repeat the question please?" Kelly Bagwell isn't quite sure of the answer to a difficult question during an Academic Bowl practice session.

Its tough, but we have lots of fun, and you find out about the real Mr.
McLachlan.

-Melvyn Williams

"Ohh! I had it but I lost it..."
Lonnise Andrews draws a blank and can't remember the answer to a difficult question.

^"Look! Its the buzzer!"
Melvyn Williams proves that it's the buzzer's fault
he got the question wrong.

Marking the Time

The M.D.S. Yearbook staff is a group of hard-working, dedicated and creative students. Every Thursday the staff and editors get together and design pages, write copy and captions.

Each member is assigned to sections. The regular staff works under the direction of student editors and Mrs. Sinksen, the moderator. With hard work even the lowliest staff member can become an editor.

Photographers are an important part of the staff. Without them, those special moments that always bring a smile would be lost.

The staff works hard to preserve an entire year for its students to remember.

"This is the last page layout that I'm ever going to do!" Wendy Bennett is hard at work at the less glamorous side of yearbook.

^"Do I HATE writing captions!" Junior Stephanie Webb prepares her pages for the next deadline.

"What is a 'pica' anyway?" Carrie Frank is hard at work drawing page layouts for the yearbook.

Stop the Presses!

Have you ever wondered who produces the newspaper? Look no further, for they are the roving reporters of the DeSales Despatch. The Despatch works hard to report the activities of the school. The paper includes editorials, sports, and many school features and news.

"What's so funny, guys?"
Jennifer Wisdom and Quintress Leslie share a laugh before an after-school newspaper meeting.

This year the paper sported a new look. As part of that new look, the Despatch added items such as more student quotes and pictures. We will still have a special last edition of the Despatch, which includes the seniors' last will and testaments, superlatives and other senior highlights. The Desales Despatch is a group of students dedicated to reporting the activities of MDS student life.

Working on newspaper has been a unique experience.

-Kim Jackson

^ "Could you repeat that?"

"Well, what if we try this?"
Mrs. Peery and Kim Jackson talk about new ideas to make the paper even better.

Keeping in Tempo

Providing the school and the community with beautiful selections of songs is the task the Mount de Sales Choraliers have to fulfill and they live up to it. Each day the Choraliers practice many selections which they perform at school events such as Mass and special assemblies. They also perform at the Candlelight Carol Service, Black History program, Christmas Program, the Showcase of the Arts, and they have a Spring Sing. The MDS Choraliers are divided into groups. One of these groups, the Cavalier Chorale, is the advanced students. The Chorale performs in civic clubs and community events. The chorus also has a quartet, a trio and soloists, who represent MDS in Literary Competition. The Chorus is an important part of student life.

^ "Somewhere out there" is a future chorus member. Stephanie Webb and Aime Hill sing a duet while the school listens.

No one can fully understand music unless you perform it. Chorus gives a lot of students the chance to experience music.

-Shelli Hill

< "Shooby dooby do wop..."

Jesse Fortson and Mac Oppy show their talent at the Spring Sing. With at least two years of Chorus ahead of them, they will continue to improve and perform for MDS.

> "Oh yeah, be sure you get my good side!" Zack Matovu smiles for the camera as he enjoys the glamour of being a member of the MDS chorus. Lookin' good Zack!

< "Ding, dong, ding, dong..." The Cavalier Ringers add a unique and special touch to the chorus. Not only do they practice singing, but they also practice the mystic art of the bells.

The Chorus...

...had fifty six members in 1994-95.

...is divided into a twenty two member group of advanced students called the Choraliers.

...practices daily in their chorus class.

...sings at seven school events.

...is invited to sing at four community events.

...gives two school concerts: The Spring Sing and the Christmas Program.

...earned superior ratings at the Choral Festival for three years.

...has a different group that represents the school at literary music events.

...is also made up of The Cavalier Ringers, a group of students who accompany the chorus.

< "Just look at me! I'm surrounded by all this talent!" Freshman Lisa Philpot poses for a picture while all around her is an ocean of choral talent. The chorus performs at seven school functions, among them are: the Spring Sing, the Candlelight Carol Service and many school mass services.

> "We've crossed that bridge and we're headed for big things!" Seniors Jason Hutto and Jennifer Wisdom sing a duet at their last MDS Spring Sing. Jason would later sing "The Our Father" at the Baccalaureate mass and join nine other seniors in singing the "Alma Mater" at the graduation ceremony.

It's Play Time!

Soon after the school year started, many aspiring actors answered the call for the one-act play. Many tried out for parts but only a few were chosen.

Once selected, the actors began practicing. They were fortunate to have Mr. Justin Golding as director. He and the cast rehearsed everyday, and for more than two hours a day when the production time was nearing.

This year's play was entitled The Bride and is about a family that was torn apart due to the introduction of a new bride into the family.

The cast placed first in region competition and went on to take first place in region Literary competition.

> "You are the center of my life..." Chris Brennaman expresses his feelings for Rachel Mazza in his role of the bridegroom.

^ "Good luck everyone..."

A moment of tension and nervousness as the auditioners wait to see who got the lead role in the play.

▽ "I love what he did here..." Misti Mosley shows Cindy Dockrell and Chris Brennaman the changes for the script.

The directing was great and we all had fun practicing together. I look forward to next year.

-Marianna LaVecchia

Time For Expression

The National Art Honor Society, moderated by Mrs. Mead, consists of talented students who excel in the area of art.

In order to be selected, students must maintain a cumulative average of 90 or above in art and must also maintain an overall B average in other classes.

Members must keep a portfolio that consists of all their artwork and have a teacher's recommendation.

National Art Honor Society members also can request to paint a mural somewhere on campus.

The National Art Honor Society members devote their time to fostering a broader understanding of the arts.

Our Diplomats

Academic achievements, personality, and a desire to represent your school are just a few of the qualifications that a Cavalier Ambassador possesses. This dedicated group of students are the tour guides for our school's open house events sponsored for the Catholic and public schools. Families new to the area are routinely given private tours. Cavalier Ambassadors also serve as hosts and hostesses for special school events such as the clergy visitation days. They have the very important job of providing a good first impression of M.D.S.

Cavalier Ambassadors are a group of model students who are eager to serve the school.

"We go together!" exclaims Leigh Cabasares and her group during Catholic School's Visitation Day at M.D.S.

"Hey! Surprise! Smile!" Jessica Perez and her group run into a wild yearbook photographer in the hall.

"I am THE man!" jests Mathis Coxon as he spends student visitation day with a group of girls.

Masterpieces

The Tapestry magazine captures our Mount de Sales students' artistic energies and thoughts. It's headed by two creative geniuses, Mrs. Mead and Mrs. Dohn. When an art teacher and religion teacher team up to produce a literary magazine featuring our students creating short stories, poems, and dazzling art, who knows what will happen? Today, these young artists are producing marvelous pieces of work for the school magazine; tomorrow we may see their artistic talents in museums and published form. Judging by their literary accomplishments, the students will make this Tapestry an outstanding reflection of M.D.S.

"What a boring day!" Susan Locks appears to suffer from a severe case of "Writer's Block" as she tries to unleash her creative spirit.

Check-Out Time

Many students spend time in the library assisting Mr. Vullo with things such as signing library passes, shelving books, and helping students use the card catalog. These students are the library assistants and they donate their study hall time to help the other students. They alone, besides Mr. Vullo of course, can check out books, and retrieve past magazines for those who need them.

Since the library was remodeled, a lot of work is needed to keep it in such good shape. One person cannot do it alone. The library assistants are students who care about MDS and about her students. They help make the library a special place.

> "Oh, I just don't know...should I check this one out or not?" Andrea Tice thumbs through a book during a break from her library assistant duties.

^ "Nothing compares to shelving books!" Davis Tye shelves books as part of his service in the library.

▼ "Ta Da! The reference section!" Chance Strozier finds the book he needs, with a little help from Mr. Vullo.

No one runs a library like Mr. Vullo.

Time to Jam!

This year MDS has added an extra curricular activity to its already lengthy list. The Mount de Sales band consists of roughly 20 people and is expected to grow even larger by next year. The band is directed by Mr. Young. Besides directing , he also teaches classical guitar at Macon College, and gives violin lessons.

The band has performed at one of MDS's parent meetings, as well as all of our pep-rallies.

Further plans are being made in terms of the MDS band being a part of the curriculum. In the meantime, however, the band is getting prepared for another successful year.

< "Is everybody tuned up?" Mr. Young makes sure that the band is in tip-top shape for their school-wide debut at the pep-rally.

Recognition Time

Leadership, citizenship, character, honor, and service are the traits for which a National Honor Society and National Junior Honor Society member is selected. Maintaining a 90 or above cumulative average is another requirement. National Honor Society consists of students in the 10th, 11th, and 12th grade. Eighth or ninth grade students can be selected for National Junior Honor Society. The National Honor Society began the year by sponsoring the school-wide canned food drive during the Thanksgiving season. The students who belong to these societies continue the time-honored tradition of excellence here at MDS.

> "I hope I don't trip on my way up there..." Erin Wood sits next to Marianna LaVecchia and waits for her turn to sign the National Honor Society official register.

Many students at MDS have gone beyond what is required. These students have expressed an interest in a foreign language. Mount de Sales has chapters in Spanish and French Honor Societies. To be a member of the Spanish or French Honor Society, a student must complete at least 3 years in their respective language and maintain an A average in their classes.

Students in the Honor Societies compete in oratorical competitions and attend weekly meetings where they elect officers.

Mount de Sales is fortunate to have so many students going above and beyond what is required.

Seniors

The Best of Times

Senior year: it's about time; it's about laughs, hugs, and tears. It is a time to remember. The Class of 1995 is unforgettable because of their leadership and dedication. They will represent Mount de Sales well as they head off into the "real" world.

"I promise Mrs. Allen. I am studying on for my English test...Really I am!" Beniko Carswell finishes his Trig homework during homeroom.

"But have you read these lyrics yet?" Stephanie Butts and Megan Claire Hester bond as they discuss the latest movement in the youth music culture.

Counting the Days

The class of 1995 proved that just because they are seniors does not mean that they do not have a lot of work to do. From the given class assignments and homework to the more grueling tasks of keeping up in A.P. classes and applying to college, the seniors' countdown until graduation was found to be far from easy. On top of tackling these challenges, lots found time within their hectic schedules to participate in time-consuming extra-curricular activities. However, beyond the hustle of their daily lives, these future graduates did have the time to relax and have fun.

What's this, carefree students in class with nothing to do? During an activity period, a group of seniors get together for some class bonding and general conversation with friends.

Just one in many times, Jim Ferri visits his home away from home — his locker. From books to lunches to pure junk, students store almost everything under the sun in their lockers.

It was just another day in homeroom, when, "oh, no" a yearbook photographer startles Stephanie Butts, Kelly Bloodworth, Elena Castresana, and Patt Dugas from their morning nap.

On arriving at school, Kim Utley still manages to look at ease for a surprise shot. The rush to get the few parking spaces in the senior lot is a part of every senior experience.

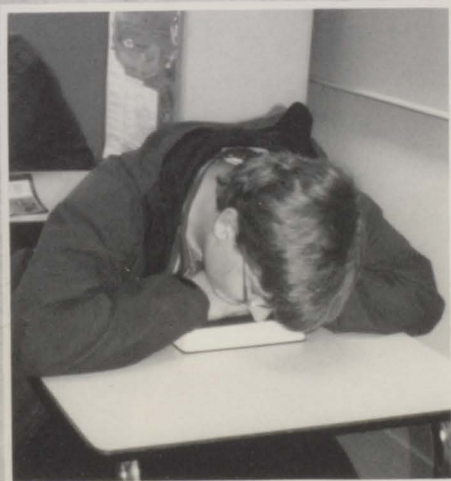

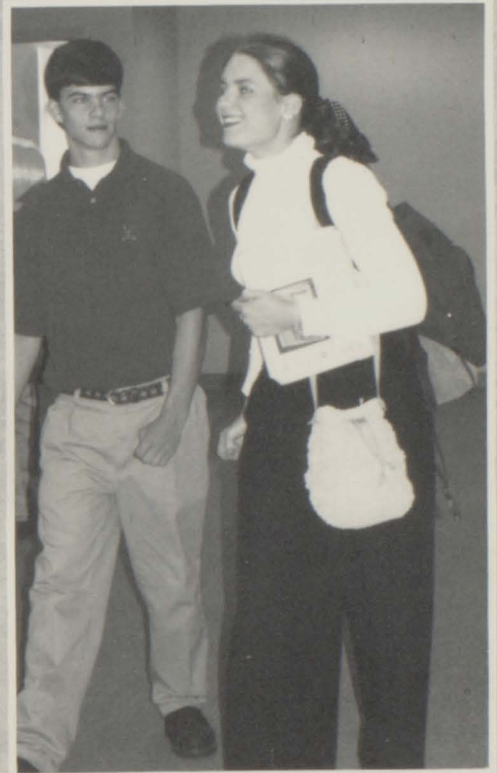

"No more trig homework," grumble Wesley Cobb and Shannon Wagner. In spite of their obvious gripes with their tasks, the two diligently work to complete their assignments.

Strolling from class to class while wearing their happy faces, Casey Washburn and Brandi Cook prove that seniors do manage to have fun and relax in between their demanding workloads.

Displaying his, along with other seniors' favorite pasttime, sleepyhead Jason Staples dreams of days when he won't have to awaken so early in the morning and come to school.

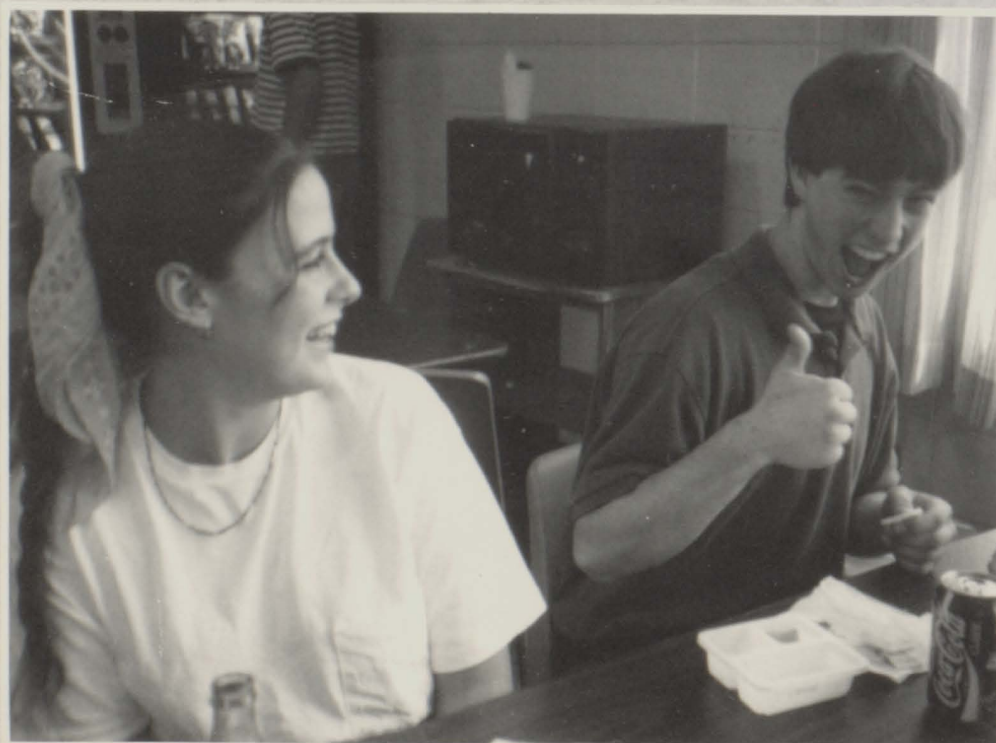

"Ummm This looks tasty," comment Stewart Pickett and Chiz Okehi as they stare into the innards of a fetal pig in advanced biology, a demanding class composed mainly of seniors.

"Who rocks the house? The seniors rock the house." The rowdy senior class cheers, as they rattle their noise makers, in support of the team during their last Homecoming pep rally.

A moment of senior bonding and class unity, Cory Dockrell, Melvyn Williams, Shonte Bentley, and Mary Pope huddle together for a spontaneous snapshot after the Homecoming pep rally.

How cool can one cat be? Senior Lamar Al-day, wearing his black leather jacket — the symbol of the rebel during the '50's — shows that he's the top gun on Homecoming Dress-up day.

"You wanna see my impression of Fonzie?" Senior Bill Hamm, getting into the spirit of Homecoming by imitating his favorite '50's icon, amuses fellow bee-bopper Elena Castresana.

Happy Days

Last Homecoming was one that the seniors won't ever forget. Students took part in many activities, including dining at the Bee Bop Soda Shop and dressing in '50's attire. The announcement of the nominees for Queen and

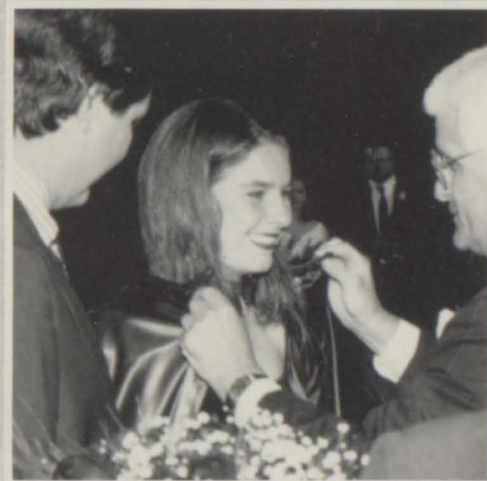

King began the week. The annual bonfire and skits were two highlights of the week. The night of the big game, in which MDS was victorious over Brentwood, was most memorable. During halftime, Brandi Cook was named Queen. The week ended with a dance held in the cafeteria. After Zack Matovu was named King, students danced the night away as the week of fun concluded.

"Come along and ride on a fantastic voyage," seniors Theo Mack, Chad Timms, Wesley Cobb, and C.J. Butts ask as they cruise in their drop-top '57 Chevy during Homecoming skit night.

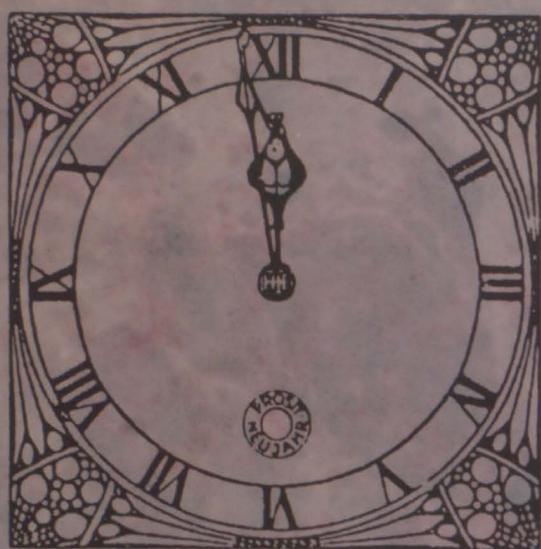

The highlight of halftime, senior Brandi Cook is named the 1995 Homecoming Queen, as she is congratulated by Mr. Pierce. This unforgettable occasion capped off the week's events.

Shared Times

What are the qualities that would best describe a friend? Caring, trustworthy, fun, comforting, compassionate and warm. A friend is a special someone who will never let you down in times of trouble and despair. He is your confidant. Whenever a crisis arises you can always turn to him for emotional support — even if it is 3:00 in the morning on a school night. After four years of sharing times with those people whom they could describe as friends, seniors soon realize that their time together will be ending.

Isn't it great to have buddies that will help you with your homework? Chad Timms can vouch for that as Jason Balkcom and Casey Washburn offer their wisdom for his mental growth.

Locked in a warm embrace, gal pals Mary Pope and Shannon Wagner, who typify the picture of how best friends should appear, show their affection for each other quite openly.

Chatting over lunch, Amanda Mizell and Jennifer Deaton prove that being a friend calls for lots of intimate conversation — which is easily done while dining at a favorite hangout.

Displaying their joy and mutual affection on the final day of classes, Angela Stanley, Shonte Bentley, and Kimberly Jackson show that the bonds of friends can last beyond separation.

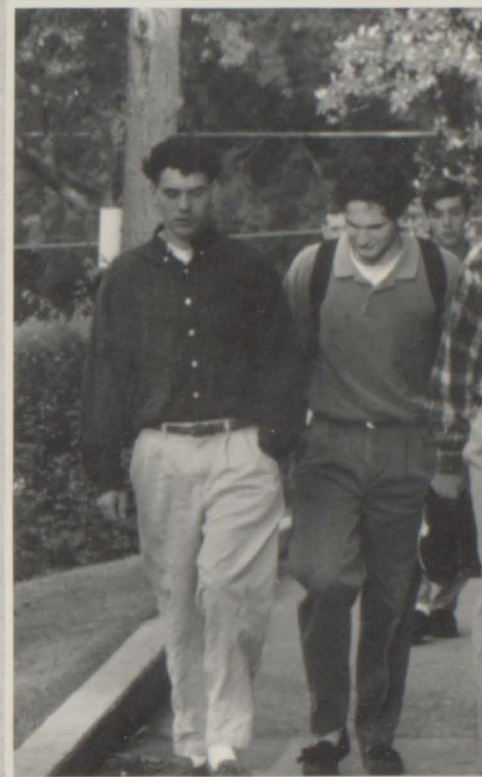

Two of four friends admit that eating — not absence — makes the heart grow fonder. Elena Castresana, Lora Hudson, Erica Rodriguez and Stephanie Butts prove this as they chat over lunch.

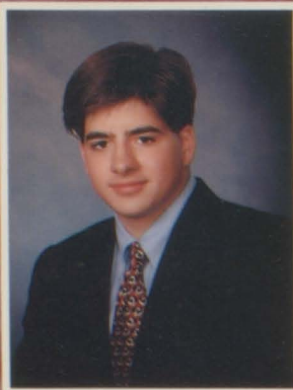

What should friends do if not amuse each other? Walking together before class, chums Keith Harris and Matt Attaway share a couple of laughs upon making their daily arrival on campus.

"Hey, aren't those the Doublemint twins?" Girlfriends Kim Utley and Shannon Minix prove that best friends can not only share special times together, but occasionally their looks.

"I can't believe that!" responds Summer Meriwether as she and Rachel Parks listen to mutual confidante Wendy Hitchcock tell of her bizarre late night excursion to the grocery store.

One Special Night

Prom night — that one magical night when every girl feels like Cinderella being escorted to the ball by her Prince Charming. This event is a special and exciting occasion for all, for it is mainly on this one evening when each person can dress in their formal attire and become the person they wish they were in their dreams of dreams. It is especially dear to the hearts of members of the graduating class, to whom this night is dedicated and designed. For them this is a once in a lifetime occasion to be shared with friends and loved ones, whose memory they will always cherish.

Gettin' down to the beat of the music, Nichole Dixon, with her date, proves that just because she is wearing a formal, sequinned gown doesn't mean that she cannot get in the groove.

As she strolls down the lead out ramp, Aieea Lucas, escorted by Marvin Jackson, watches her step so as not to fall. This ceremony is a special tradition in honor of the senior class.

"What a lovely couple!" The excitement and thrill of prom night can be simply summarized in the elated and joyful smiles of Michael Bradshaw and his date as they mingle in the crowd.

"Wait! We're not ready yet!" exclaim Amanda Mizell and Erin Wood, carrying their beautiful bouquets, as they turn suddenly to find an awaiting camera aimed at them and their dates.

A Day of Bonding

The annual senior retreat is the day when members of the graduating class come together and collectively participate in various activities as a class. Designed to promote spiritual awareness of the milestone which is occurring in their lives, this day of relaxation gives the seniors a chance to congregate as a united body. Seniors also use the event to reflect upon their four years of high school and what they can anticipate in their future lives as adults. A most memorable affair, the retreat helps seniors to realize the great change which is taking place before their eyes.

Sharing in a group discussion is just one of the activities that is a part of the senior retreat. Here, several have joined together after independent work to review what they wrote.

Caught up in the spirit of the occasion, classmates and friends Jason Balkcom and Shannon Wagner share a hug in celebration of their long, enduring relationship with one another.

"You can have the last brownie, Father," says Danielle Cooper to Father Robert Chaney, the steward of the retreat, as they enjoy a cordial dialogue during a break from activity.

An Unforgettable Weekend

The senior trip is considered the last time when the graduating class will be together for fun and relaxation. It can best be described as the last moment of bonding for the seniors. This year was no exception.

The trip included dinner and a show at King Henry's Feast, a night of partying on Pleasure Island, and a day at Universal Studios. Overall, the trip, including the eight hour bus ride, was exhausting, yet well worth it. The two days in Orlando proved to be not only a time to be with friends for pleasure, but for some it was also a weekend that won't ever be forgotten.

"Look at all the stuff we bought!" Karishma Kalli and Jeanie Dizon show off the goodies they purchased while shopping at Universal Studios and at the Hard Rock Cafe in Orlando.

The dinner must be good, it seems, from the broad grins that Christy Price and Susan Locks have on their faces as they await the beginning of the show at King Henry's Feast.

What's with all the funny hats guys? Megan-Claire Hester, Marianna LaVecchia, and Michael Bronson flaunt the various hats they bought from the Brown Derby at Universal Studios.

One Last Time

That final day of classes — the day that each and every senior awaits to arrive, but seldom ever will forget. The last English class, the last calculus test, the final physics lab — these are all times that seniors don't want to occur just as much as they rejoice when they do. With this day comes the realization that high school life is coming to its end and the times of being one are few. The day begins with the celebrated senior run in the halls and concludes with a huddle in the trapezoid. With both these events, the class gathers to celebrate at school for one last time.

A Kodak moment, Angela Stanley and Kate Stewart share a warm embrace filled with lots of tears and well wishes. This occasion epitomizes the general sentiments of most at this time.

The traditional gathering in the trapezoid is a most joyous, yet also most tearful school custom. Drawn to each other as they face an unknown future, the seniors hug in remembrance.

"Can you believe Mrs. Allen is giving us a test on all of this?" Jason Balkcom marvels at the amount of work to do on the last day while Wesley Cobb and Rachel Parks sympathize.

"Hip hip hooray!" shouts Aieea Lucas as she leaps aboard the back of Michael Bradshaw. They join Daniel Dod and Kathleen Carrigan as they sprint by onlookers on the annual senior run.

Class of # f 1995

A Solemn Occasion

The Baccalaureate Mass is the final event before graduation where the members of the senior class assemble with family to receive a blessing and spiritual guidance before embarking into the adult world. Most grave and sacred, the ceremony features an introduction of the soon-to-be graduates to the congregation and the first procession of the class in their cap and gowns. The newly installed Bishop Kevin Boland conducted this year's service and said the homily. Regarded as a most solemn occasion, the Baccalaureate Mass is a cherished annual occurrence among Catholic schools.

The first procession of the class of 1995 was a memorable sight. The young women in the class, adorned in white caps and gowns, slowly marched in as the assembled crowd honors them.

The three top students, Kimberly Jackson, Jeanie Dizon, and Kathleen Carrigan stand after they are presented with their medals. Kimberly and Jeanie were the co-salutatorians.

Medal of Honor winner and student council president, Andy Wilhelm welcomes the congregation to the Baccalaureate Mass and salutes his fellow classmates in his opening remarks.

It is tradition for the class to be formally introduced to the assembly at the mass. Here, each member of the class stands as his or her name is said. This rite begins the ceremony.

Once in a Lifetime

Graduation — the event that marks the climax and the end of high school. Each senior greatly anticipates this night, when years of study are finally recognized. In the presence of loved ones each candidate processes in as the assembly stands in honor. A prayer opens the dignified ceremony. Afterwards, the salutatorians and valedictorian deliver their addresses. The culmination of this most respectable ceremony is when each graduate receives his diploma, the symbol of his success, and strides across the stage for his moment in the spotlight, a once in a lifetime event.

All rise as the class of 1995 enters. Led by Mary Pope, Stewart Pickett, and P.J. Peterson, the fledgling graduates happily glide by the audience of congratulatory onlookers.

"Let me tell you little lady," senior Beniko Carswell, sporting his graduate cap and tassel and a big grin takes time to receive congratulations after graduation exercises.

Hands of Time

Class (klas), n.-a group of students taught together. To the students of Mount de Sales, their class is more than a group of "students." They are people that you spend time with both in and out of school. They are like your second family. "One thing that I like about MDS is that everyone is so close."-says junior Patricia Myers.

"Am I hard-working or what?" Freshman Leslie Ann Jordan works diligently on her English classwork assignment while maintaining a stress-free attitude.

"One little, two little, three little freshmen..." During gym class, a group of freshman girls show their delight at finally becoming part of the MDS family.

A time for reunions. A time for new friends. A time for fun and laughs. A time for seriously thinking about the next step. A time to be thankful for the passing of some years. A time to look forward to the coming of others.

Returning to Mount de Sales in '94, this year's junior class was no doubt ready for everything. Being juniors meant enjoying long-awaited privileges, different classes and teachers, and friends, new and old.

The class of '96 has been strongly united, caring, understanding, and sharing with each other. M.D.S. juniors possess a rare amount of talent that is ever on the increase. Juniors understand the ingredients of success: hard work, helping, and perseverance.

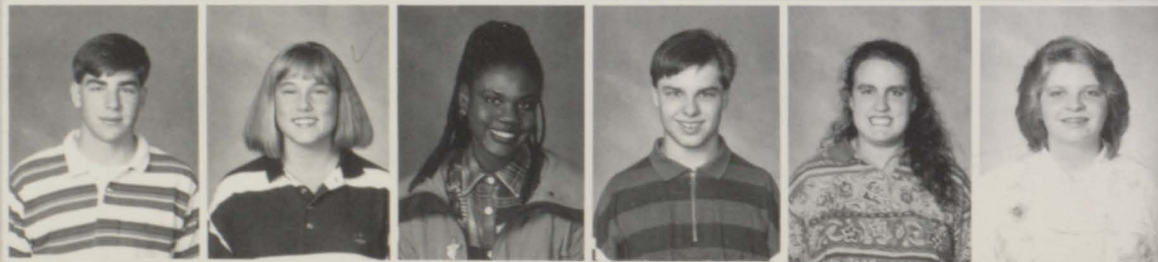

Juniors' abilities give them no limits! Look for unity. Look for accomplishments. Look for great times. Look for a class that is classier than ever!

1. Taking time out to eat is always important during a busy day at school. Juniors Katy Crosby and Melissa Kaplan feast on pizza and french fries during lunch.

2. "No, homework spoils my appetite," says Thomas Rowland, as he chats with Amy Williams.

3. Proofreading is a must in junior English. Daxton Taylor looks over an essay which he hopes will be picture perfect.

4. "Can you fit anything else in that bag?" Aaron Gapczynski holds up a letter for Adrienne Cramer to cram into her purse.

5. "No last minute homework for me," says Scott Werkmeister, who sits patiently waiting for class to start.

6. "Friends are forever," say juniors Wendy Bennett, Shauna Williams, and April Fowler.

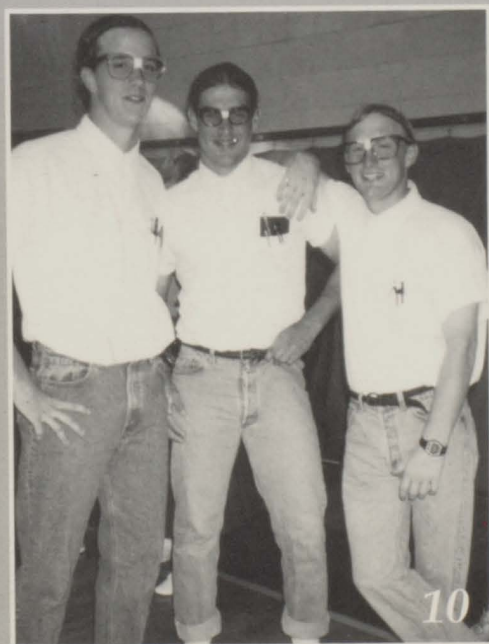

7. Brrrr! David Stahl and Anna Chastain brave the freezing cold weather. No doubt they wish to could go inside, even if it means...class!

8. Follow the leader! Homeroom moderator Mr. Midkiff is imitated by countless juniors, as they give their attention at an assembly.

9. Killer trig problems! Heather Bonham finally figured out the answer.

10. Nerds 'R' Us! Dameron Davis, Cody Hale, and Keith Hatcher participate in dress-up competition during Homecoming Week.

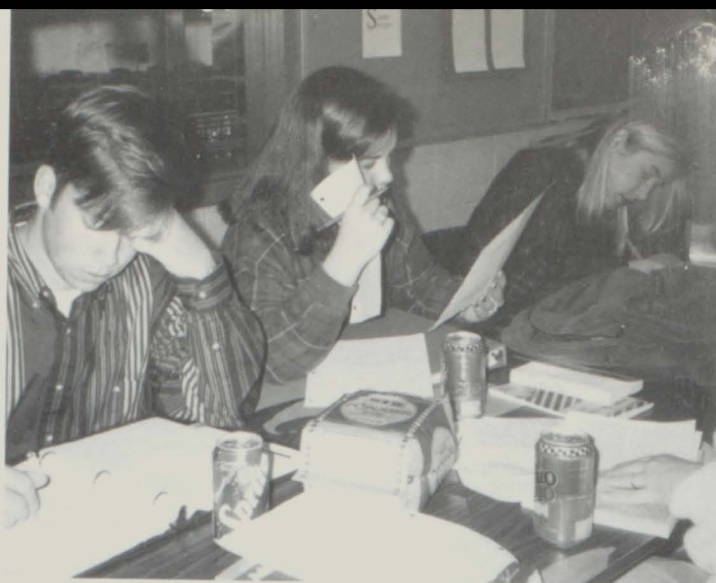

11. "P.E is tiring!" Donna Mizell and Lindsay Gavin sit this one out.

Year in Review

Class of 96

For the 1994-95 junior class, the school year was both hectic and exciting. For many, the workload, with the extra-cūricular activities, sports, and homework, seemed to double.

That was O.K., though, because MDS juniors learned responsibility and how to deal with the pressures of school life.

From beginning to end, school was a challenge that many of them dealt with by struggling to make the grade, forming new and lasting friendships, or just by being themselves. Most of all, they were excited at the prospect of becoming seniors. That means even more responsibility. But not to worry - the class of 1996 is ready and willing.

Stephen Lankford smirks a little as Valerie Rodriguez tries to see what's so interesting inside his notebook.

Icing on the cake! Several spirited juniors compete in the pyramid competition, a favorite during Fun Night.

A helping hand. Dameron Davis cuts out and staples Homecoming Week spirit buttons for the junior class.

May I help you? Junior Laura Walters stops and helps classmate Lance Keen with a tough English assignment during the final minutes of homeroom.

Expect the Unexpected

SophomoresSophomoresSophomoresSophomoresSophomores

The sophomore year is a time for fun and excitement! In 1994-95, friendships grow closer and high school memories are made. This is their time to work together and to show support for each other.

Hardworking and spirited are perfect descriptions of the Class of '97. This class is always eager to help by lending a hand to someone in need. At pep rallies, they show their spirit by cheering with enthusiasm to encourage our teams. This is not the only time sophomores are spirited, however. This class is a visible force at Mount de Sales and provide an image of extreme dedication and school support.

The 1994-95 sophomore class is a very unique group. They look forward to their next two years at M.D.S, and will no doubt prove to be great leaders who are well prepared for the future. So, expect the unexpected!

Class of 97

Many sophomores describe their 1994-95 year as a blast. Not only were this year's sophomores hard working and dedicated, they were a wild and crazy bunch. They willingly got used to changes which took place during the year, as there were new teachers, students and experiences.

Teamwork and spirit played an important part in sophomore life. Students showed their enthusiasm in a variety of ways, particularly in working well with others.

Brandy Taylor and Kim Bailey talk with sophomore head moderator Mrs. Dermatas during Fun Night.

"I've got spirit!" screams Sophomore Danielle Faulk who cheered during Homecoming's bonfire and Skit Night.

As the year progressed, sophomores looked forward to becoming a great junior class. Though that meant they would be faced with more hard work, they felt prepared for an exciting future as the class of 1997.

"Be my Valentine!" says Amanda Baker, showing her heartsticker, bright smile and sparkling personality.

FreshmenFreshmenFreshmenFreshmenFreshmenFreshmenFreshmen

Time reveals all for the MDS Freshmen Class. So far, they've learned new things and faced new challenges. About 120 freshmen have joined together from many places, including Sacred Heart, Saint Peter Claver, Saint Joseph's, and our own Middle School.

Taking the big step to high school was difficult. Many have new opportunities to be more involved.

Despite any cons, most freshmen agree that this year is the best! Katy Chow exclaimed, "The Middle School was fun, but ... Although high school [is] harder, it's much more fun. You become more responsible."

It's true the freshmen have learned a lot about responsibility and working hard. They love the high school experience! M.D.S. can be proud of the number of freshmen who love high school, have high hopes, and struggle to achieve a look all their own.

Class of 98

The 1994-95 freshmen year was new and innovative.

For many of the students, it was busy, with classes and after-school activities that demanded each freshman's full attention. While they learned a lot in class, the academic side of a hectic school life was counterbalanced by the freshmen traits of being both fun-loving and spirited!

Forever friends. That friendships mean everything display James Taylor and Alexis Mason.

Throughout the year, freshmen had a hard time trying to make the grade and cope with school life. But uniting with friends and making new ones eased the hard times.

Much excitement is expressed by Kendall Wall, who proves that enthusiasm is a special freshman quality.

Wrapping up their 1994-95 year meant preparing to become sophomores. But there never was a better group of students! Signs of hard work, determination, and a whole lot of spirit are sure to follow the class of 1998.

Eighth Grade Eighth Grade Eighth Grade

Eighth grade, what an experience! The students juggle school work with everything from C-team practices to student council meetings. They also help with various school functions.

Their first task comes during homecoming week. The class is responsible for decorating St. Joseph's Hall and preparing an introductory song for Skit Night.

Still going strong, the 8th graders continue to progress through the year. "I think this class as a whole is creative and extremely talented," said David Grinstead.

From the beginning of the year, these rising freshmen hold on to make the year a memorable one. When asked about what she thinks about the eighth grade, Mrs. Dadisman replied, "I think this class has a good group personality. They have a lot of energy and creativity, and I'm sure we'll see a lot of great things from them in the future."

Middle School Middle School Middle School

There are activities in which both seventh and eighth graders participate. Two very important ones are Middle School Student Council and the annual celebration of Grandparents Day. Middle School students work hard to make these events and activities exciting and memorable.

Two representatives from each Middle School homeroom were selected to serve on Student Council. Students campaigned for a few days and were elected by their peers. This organization works to bring about plans and changes for upcoming months.

On February 14, 1995, the seventh and eighth grades had Grandparents and Special Friends Day. The classes performed skits and sang songs for guests invited to MDS. Class unity and effort brought about a great day.

Middle School Student Council includes: (bottom row) Andrea Tice, Leslie Witherington, Bridget Corcoran, Lindsey Mummert, Lucy Crosby, Brooke Hartley, Katherine Coxon, (top) Shell Kurzen, Michelle Black, Kim Sarabia, B.J. ## Seventh Grade Seventh Grade Seventh Grade

Entering middle school is an exciting transition which can deeply affect those making the transition. This year's seventh graders are proof that growing up is both fun and challenging. It's no doubt that they've found middle school different from experiences in elementary school, but how are they handling it? Great, of course.

Seventh graders are dedicated, hardworking, and very fun-loving. Despite their youth, they've learned the very grown-up tasks of becoming self-starters, hard workers, and talented individuals.

Most learning takes place on different levels. Individually, coping with the new pressures of middle school is enough. Collectively, they learn the importance of friendships and sharing. Being part of the whole middle school makes teamwork a must.

Classes of tomorrow

The Mount de Sales Middle School was full of excitement this 1994-95 year. Seventh and eighth grade life, though different from the high school, had many of the same elements. These students had to change classes, and get used to very hectic schedules and various extra activities. With over 170 students this year, they also had to adjust to limited space.

These high schoolers to be experienced mini versions of high school activities.

Middle School had a math day as well as literary competition.

Eighth graders Kelly Wolfenbarger and Kirstin Reice show that friendship is an important part of middle school life at Mount de Sales.

Dedicated Middle schoolers Summer Causey and Emily Calhoun are hard at work writing essays.

Friendships among the students formed that will last forever. While seventh graders, the class of 2000, have one more year, eighth graders are prepared for the big move to high school as the MDS class of 1999.

Seventh grader Autumn Huntsinger makes a visit to her locker to get prepared before her next class.

I don't believe I fell for it! 7th grader Jennie Thigpen delights in pulling one over on classmate Natalie Cortes.

11. Wild cheers come from Middle School participants at Mount de Sales' Fun Night.

12. Lunch time means smiles. Freshmen Chelsea McRae and Brooke Stone share a laugh while eating lunch in the cafeteria.

"All together now...and skip, hop, jump!"

The girls soccer team warms up before one of their games. They bring new meaning to the word "team."

"First he shows you the left, but then he goes right!" Junior Midfielder Joey Filush uses the infamous "juke" to leave his opponents standing still while looking on in awe.

"Over the hurdle and through the woods..."

Junior Brad Smith aggressively attacks the hurdles in front of him. Brad helped his team to a second place finish in the Region.

"Run, run as fast as you can...you can't catch me..." Rico Stubbs gives his shake and bake to a Brentwood player. With moves like this, he was impossible to stop.

Success Time

From the many hours of grueling practice to the intensity of a critical game, the MDS players show what it takes to be winners. The time that they put into the preparation for competition is worth the outcome no matter what it may be. It is because of their time and talent that Mount de Sales is one of the best in athletics.

"Watch out! She's going to dunk it!" Junior Stacey Goodman plants her feet before lifting off to display her 360° reverse dunk...it could happen this time.

"It's going, going, going, it could be...it might be...yes, it's out of here!" Keith Hatcher smashes the poor defenseless baseball over the centerfield fence.

Sophomore Kyle Mitchell commented on the season, "We practiced hard all season. We're not only Region Champs and State Runners-up, but we gained respect for years to come."

Waiting on the referee, Frank Mummert looks for a teammate to receive the ball in the State Final. His throw-ins encouraged the team throughout the championship tournament.

Showing the opposing team how strong Cavalier spirit is, David Stahl, Jamey Huser and Kriston Roman with great enthusiasm lead a group of students in cheering on their team.

Will Sheehan shows the fans the RIGHT way to kick the soccer ball! His impressive saves and tremendous kicks have helped the team go on to numerous victories throughout the season.

Time and Time Again

With six minutes to go in the second half, it looked like the soccer team was going to be defeated by Stratford in their first meeting of the season. With perseverance, the Cavs moved the ball through Stratford's defense to Chizomom Okehi, who rocketed a shot into the corner of the goal. This sent the game into overtime and with five minutes to go Michael Cullinan crossed the ball to Joey Filush who tapped in the winning goal. Two weeks later the two teams met at the Charter Soccer Complex, but this time the Eagles defeated the Cavaliers 2-0. The next meeting would be in the Semi-Finals of the State Tournament. Once again the Cavs showed their winning form by upsetting Stratford 2-1. The Cavs were now on their way to the State Final against Frederica. After 80 minutes of intense play, the Cavs, unable to score, lost 1-0. The team only had one thing to say, "Thanks for your support." This year's soccer team conquered many difficulties to become champs in the hearts of every Cavalier fan.

Be aggressive! Junior Joey Filush won't let anyone get in his way. His winning attitude has been a great contribution to this year's team. Joey led the team in assists this year and was the second leading goal scorer.

Senior Chizomom Okehi shows off his fancy footworking skills while maneuvering around the opposing team to score yet another goal. Chiz was this year's leading goal scorer for Mount de Sales and a favorite among the fans.

Time To Shine

Through painstaking labor, a whole lot of heart, and encouragement from the fans, the Cavaliers managed to let their true talent shine. This talent did not appear overnight, but rather has been a result of a few years of diligent preparation. The team started off their training for the season early, beginning in the summer when the coaches initiated a weight training program for the entire team. Throughout the summer the Cavs put forth an impressive effort in order to improve their strength and skills. This desire and commitment obviously paid off with a successful Cavalier season. They finished the season with an outstanding eleven and three record. That demanding but successful weight program created a stronger line and more explosive offensive weapons with which to crush the opposing team. As Mike Kusar put it, "MDS football is back and here to stay!". With the experience gained from this year's winning season, next year's team will again truly be a force to be reckoned with by all opponents.

Junior Quarterback Keith Hatcher expresses his "deep thoughts" towards his defense during a game. Keith's inspiring poems and invocations were read to the players before every game.

"Ummm, With some salt this helmet wouldn't taste half bad," observes Freshman Mike Kusar. C.J. Butts waits in anticipation for the up-coming play while Mike waits for dinner.

"How's the grass growing down there?" questions junior Rico Stubbs as he leaves George Walton's stunned and bewildered defense stumbling to the ground and begging for mercy.

"You know, that really hurt." Senior Chad Timms reflects on the previous touchdown celebration when the entire team decided to do a "pile-on" to demonstrate their thanks.

As senior Gary Johnson prepares to kick another long field goal, Keith Hatcher marvels at the quality and skill of Wilson pigskin manufacturers. (We swear Wilson doesn't pay us.)

Senior Wesley Cobb and his father, not to mention his biggest fan, express the sentiment that every Cavalier fan has waited so long to scream, "Cavs are number 1!!"

Time To Learn

The 1994-95 J.V. football season ended in success. With the impressive 3-1 record, the boys showed improvement from last year. Although two games were canceled because of rain, the team continued to work hard and achieved an excellent record. The "junior" Cavaliers built up their strength and spirit, which will help us to have another outstanding team. "It was awesome! I think we did great", said Freshman Britton Lockhart. The team proved to be fighters.

The mighty Cavaliers prepare to put their elaborate plays into action when they decide exactly how they are going to wrestle the ball away from the Tattnell Trojan's possession.

Eighth-grader Michael Walton searches the length of the field for a fellow Cavalier to pass the ball to before the opposition tries to interfere with our team's impressive offense.

Freshman Mark Sams demonstrates his ability to skillfully maneuver the football past the defense of the Windsor Knights's and make it to the endzone to score that winning touchdown.

Deep in the outfield, seventh grader Jenny Thigpen concentrates intently on her present matter at hand-not to drop the ball at all costs and make the much needed out to end the game.

This year's B-team softball has had a fantastic season. Eighth grader Sara Hill runs with mighty determination to score another run to help the softball team win yet another game.

The B-team softball team had a fantastic 1994 season. In part due to the addition of four new seventh graders, the team played exceptionally well throughout the year. Compiling a record of 11-1, they accomplished the best record of all the teams they played. When asked her opinion of the season Coach Gray enthusiastically responded, "The team had a great season because everyone contributed and worked well together." When Kelly Wolfenbarger was asked her opinion on the season, she commented, "We had a great season and we all had a blast!" This year was a great year for everyone involved and they hope to repeat this impressive record next year.

Sophomore Wendy Hatcher is bound and determined to make the hit that wins the game. She grits her teeth in determination to slam the ball with mighty force well over the fence.

Showing way too much enthusiasm, seventh grader Sarah Mead waits prepared and ready for action. She waits in eager anticipation for the beginning of the game to finally arrive.

Time To Remember

The Varsity softball team had another great year. They returned with a strong team led by three seniors: Brandi Cook, Shannon Wagner, and Nichole Dixon. "This year's team was made up of talented athletes who became great friends along the way, which is what makes a winning team," said Nichole Dixon. The players finished the regular season with a record of 20 wins and only 7 losses. Their region record was 5-1, so the girls moved on to the State Tournament, where they lost two hard fought games to Windsor and Stratford, giving them a fourth place in the state. This early loss in the tournament, however, did not reflect the real potential of the team. Their skill can be shown by their impressive statistics. Each girl on the team had a batting average of over .250. Trish Yarbrough, Katy Crosby, and Shannon Wagner were members of the All Region team. Katy Crosby also represented the team on the All State team. Wendy Hatcher commented "We really worked hard as a team, became very close and had a lot of fun doing it."

A leader for this year's softball team — that's what Senior Brandi Cook has proven to be. She struggles to reach home to score the winning run in this important Region game.

Sophomore Marni Dodd exemplifies the winning Cavalier spirit that our softball team displayed this year as she prepares to make yet another one of her outstanding catches.

Whenever the Cavaliers are behind, they can always count on junior April Fowler's tremendous hitting abilities. Here she prepares to hit one of her stupendous shots to the fence.

"What's going on?" wonders junior Shauna Williams. Shauna's pitching has led the Cavaliers on to capture the region championship and has been a driving force for the team this year.

"Talented athletes who became great friends . . . That's what made it a team," said Nichole Dixon.

Junior Cladie Washburn slams the ball to the outfield for another spectacular hit. Her fearless hitting style has dazed and confused the many teams throughout her three years at MDS.

Off another one of her tremendous hits, Cladie Washburn reaches first base to join her favorite coach Sister Rosina. With the help of Cladie and Sister, the Cavs were destined to win.

No Time Outs !!!

The 1994-95 boys Varsity basketball team of Mount de Sales Academy was again tops this season. The team had an even distribution of all its various talents this year. There were no obviously outstanding stars. But that made no difference. This fact just forced the team to work harder, and work harder is exactly what they did. Their practices lasted two to three hours sometimes, during which they found themselves pushing their limits to the outermost boundaries. This year's team was not dominated by seniors. Its key players ranged anywhere from eighth grade to twelfth grade. This shows the potential that our team will have in many of the coming years. Through the time and extreme amounts of effort exerted by our team this year, they were able to make it all the way to the final four, where they would play for the chance to win the State title the next night. Once there, our boys played an excellent hard fought game against their long-time rivals, the Stratford Eagles. Everyone is looking forward to the season next year because it is full of great hopes. But looking back on the past season leaves all of us with feelings of pride for the 1994-95 Varsity boys basketball team. We had three members of our team Keith Hatcher, Wesley Cobb, and John Carey received the All Region award and two of those (Keith and Wesley) three received All State awards.

Senior John Carey is seen easily putting in a lay-up with an assist from another outstanding MDS senior, Wesley Cobb, after another one of Cobb's spectacular drives down the court.

Even though the George Walton team members try to block out junior Rico Stubbs they are not able to as Rico makes one of his fast offensive moves to breeze past all of them.

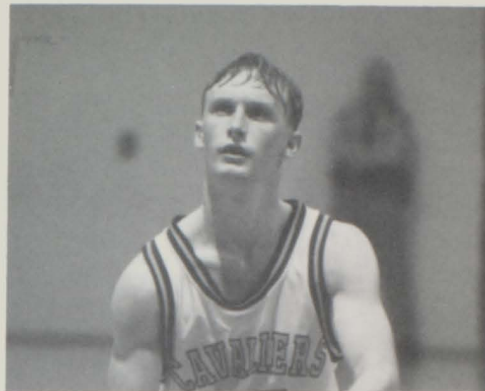

The First Presbyterian players are absolutely no match for our freshman star Edward Kendrick as he drives swiftly and easily around them for another typical awesome slam-dunk.

When the going gets tough, the tough get going! Senior Wesley Cobb is seen displaying this in the final four game against Stratford. His drives down the court awed the fans.

"This year was great! We learned a lot and the team really pulled together." — Senior, John Carey.

Starting Junior pointguard Keith Hatcher stands at the free throw line before adding to the Cavalier's winning score by "swishing" his shot. Keith was the free throw king.

More impressive skills of the Mount de Sales Cavaliers are seen as forward John Carey out rebounds the opponent on the Windsor team. John helped lead the Cavs this year as a Senior.

Better Over Time

The Mount de Sales Lady Cavaliers are one exceptionally talented group of young women. The Lady Cavaliers came very close to a repeat of the State Title again this year. The team again made it to the final found in Milledgeville. However, in the first round, they lost a terribly hard fought game to the Windsor Academy Knights. If a person would have pre-viewed the team and looked at the odds against them as the season began, they would have never believed that these were the same girls who made it all the way to the final four. After losing five seniors last year the team was left with two seniors and a lot of rebuilding. The season began on sad notes with loses of the first six games. By the end of the season, these at first seemingly terrible setbacks were not even visible. They faced many difficulties that they would be forced to overcome, and that is exactly what they did. Everyone is extremely proud of our girls varsity basketball team this year. We had several members of the team this year to make All Region and All State. If the team continues to work as hard as they did this year, there is no doubt that next year they will make it as far, if not farther than they did this year. We can always place our faith in the Lady Cavaliers their coaching staff to come through with another successful season.

Junior Melissa Alverson hurriedly scans the floor looking for a teammate to receive her pass. This skill accounts for her ranking as the player with the most assists on the team.

After stealing the ball away from the opponent, Senior Nichole Dixon speeds down the court to help gain additional points for Mount de Sales' score to assure a Cavalier victory.

Junior Stacy Goodman prepares to aim and shoot the ball for two before an oncoming Viking tries desperately, but in vain to block her shot in a failed attempt to win the game.

Freshman Betsy Washburn intently looks over her opponent's head to search for an opening to perfectly aim, shoot, and score that final winning goal against the FPD Viking defense.

"We had many barriers overcome. We bonded and worked non-stop to become a great team."
— senior, Nicole Dixon

"There's no way you're going to get the ball past me!" Junior Melissa Alverson shows off her awe-inspiring defensive tactics on the court against the team from Athens Christian.

"Go! Fight! Win!" scream the Mount de Sales Lady Cavaliers in a tremendous display of enthusiasm before going out to win yet another game to improve their record for the season.

Hoop Time

The 1994-95 Junior Varsity boys' basketball team displayed a lot of potential for the years to come. The team's sophomores displayed both leadership and talent. Several played on both varsity and junior varsity this year. They finished the season on an "upbeat" note though they were not as successful as they would have liked to be. They worked hard this season and they exhibited an excellent team effort. An outstanding team was developed and they look forward to improving their record next year.

"I got number 4." "No, I got 4." "I thought I had 4." Tattnell Square Academy players try to play man to man defense against the Cavs, but our offense is just too strong for them.

"All right, off the bench, over the rafters, off the backboard, swish." Thomas Leslie and Kevin Balkcom try to outdo each other's fantasy shot from the bench. Jordan and Bird maybe . . .

"Run for your lives !!!" Sophomore Michael Spisso makes a mad dash for the other side of the court trying to get the offense off to a quick start against the opposing team Tattnell .

"Hey, you guys, I can't win this game on my own!" Sophomore Wendy Hatcher searches the court in vain for an open teammate to help her out and pass the ball to for more MDS points.

Time To Play

"Hey, back off, Trojanette!" Sophomore Mandy Schmitt makes sure that the Lady Trojans will never get to break past the ever present Cavalier defense to take it down for two.

The 1994-95 season for the B-team girls basketball team was a time the girls will always remember. The season started out with a rocky start. The players had much to learn and many skills to develop. But as the season continued the team really pulled together to let their true talent shine. The team ended it's season on a sweet note, winning their last five games. Mandy Schmitt best summed up the season when she said, "We overcame every obstacle we faced and came through to end the season in victory."

To make the basket, or not — that is the question. Time stands still as both teams wait to see if indeed the ball will finally make it into the basket for two more points.

"No pressure now, we're just tied with five seconds left . . ." Freshman Kristen Kelly prepares to make the crucial foul shot, with teammates Cristy Burress and Kendall Wall looking on.

Play Time

The eighth grade boys basketball team struggled throughout the season but did well over all. They placed third in the C-team tournament played at Tattnall. Coach Paul Midkiff and Ken Garvin led the team to many victories and helped the players improve their skills. The team not only consisted of MDS players but also had teammates from Saint Joseph's School and Saint Peter Claver School. With a very valuable and talented team like this, they will all be strong assets to both the B-team and varsity teams.

Todd Davis proves himself to be one of the better upcoming players by knocking the ball out of the possession of the opposing team just in time to block the shot and keep their lead.

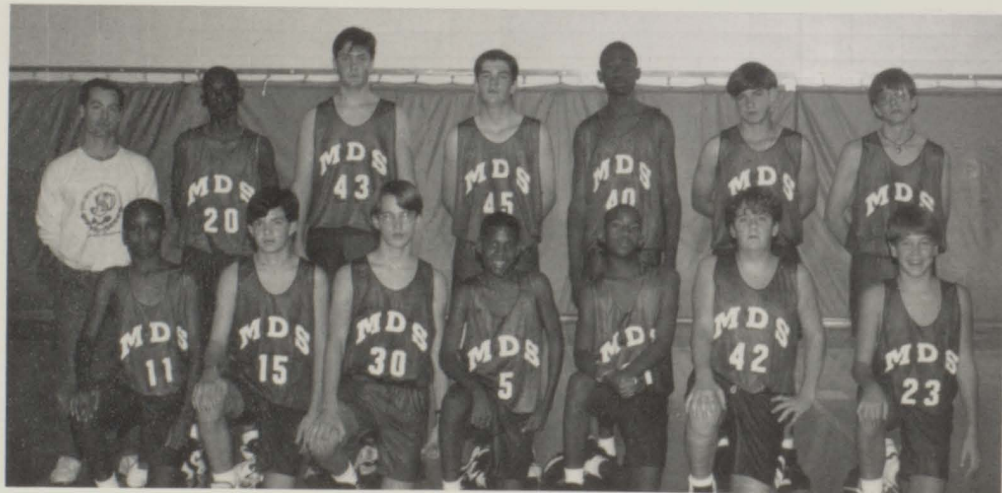

Eighth grader Jo-Jo Cadray goes for an easy lay-up in perfect form, unhindered even when a member of the Windsor Viking team tries to no avail to block his unstoppable shot.

Eighth grader Vari Brown shows off his already good defensive tactics while blocking the Sacred Heart Crusaders from ever getting their hands on the ball to score any points.

David Schnell, Thomas Annandale and other teammates of the eighth grade boys basketball team, listen carefully to the coach's plans and strategies for them to go on to win the game.

"We jump higher, stronger, and with all our heart." The First Presbyterian Vikings were no match for the abundant super powers displayed by the seventh grade basketball team.

A Time to Grow

Middle schooler Todd Davis takes a crucial shot over a First Presbyterian Viking player to earn the much needed two points for the ever powerful and dominant mighty Cavaliers.

The seventh grade boys basketball team played a season they can all be proud of. They worked hard throughout the season and it all payed off in the end, with the team advancing all the way to the title game, placing second only to FPD. These guys truly love basketball. As soon as school ended they were in the gym practicing. With talent like this, Mount de Sales' prospects for the future look bright. The boys accomplished a lot, learning the skills and teamwork they will need in the years to come.

"I got it. No I got it. Nope he's got it." Seventh grader Derek Worford soars over his teammates and opponents to get the jump ball. There was no question in who gets the jump balls.

(Back) Mgr. Alison Lewis, Derrick Worford, Michael Kelley, Pierce Hale, Alex Attaway, Nick Richardson, Trey Brown, Adam Koetter, Coach Ken Garvin (Front) Mgr. Jessica Stinson, Zack Dadisman, Tirra Richardson, Andy Knight, Brannon Dodd, Pete Ashley, Alex Beeson

"Get out of the way, Tattnall." Mount de Sales seventh grade team used team work to move the ball forward. Nick Richardson controls the ball while being assisted by his teammate.

C-TEAM TIME !!

The C-team girls basketball team has had a powerful season this year. They played hard and learned to work together as a strong team. With the help of Coach Ferris Hadidi, who could always be depended on to keep them fired up and on their toes, the team improved throughout the year and developed into a talented team. The girls started the season off with great confidence and enthusiasm and ended the season with much more. With a team this skilled, the future of Mt. de Sales basketball teams looks great.

Eighth grader Michelle Craig shows off her nearly perfected shooting style by taking another flawless shot to go on to defeat the Sacred Heart Crusaders in an exciting game.

Eighth grader Kelly Wolfenbarger struggles to keep the ball away from the opposing team while searching the court for an open Cavalier to pass the ball to and go up for two.

Kirstin Reise fights her way out of a failing attempt from the Vikings to stop her from raising the score two more crucial points to lead the cavaliers on to another great victory.

Seventh Grader Lindsey Mummert and eighth grader Shell Kurzen get the fans to cheer on the C-team Basketball Team and get the home team roused for another Cavalier victory.

Time to Learn

"Get Fired Up" Seventh grader Katie Thomason and eighth graders Shell Kurzen and Leslie Witherington stand watching the game in between their cheers.

The C-team Basketball Cheerleaders not only had an enjoyable season they also learned much for the future. Emily Andrews, the team's captain, always kept the girls spirited and in line. As Lindsey Mummert said, "I learned so much, and I had so much fun. I can't wait to be on the B-team and then the Varsity squad." Mrs. Dadisman taught the girls the basic skills so the girls could improve throughout their cheering careers. With girls like these the B-team and Varsity squads are sure to be great leaders.

Seventh grader Sherry Long cheers with great spirit during a halftime to support the team in pursuit of another victory. Notice the perfect form exhibited here. It proves MDS is #1.

"Go, Fight, Win!!" Seventh grader Sherry Long and eighth graders Emily Andrews and Bridget Corcoran finish their halftime cheer to keep the crowd fired up throughout the game.

Time to Help Out

The B-team Cheerleading Squad has been a big success. They have one of the longest seasons of all teams, cheering at football, soccer, and basketball games. They have displayed much spirit and energy and have never had a problem with fan support. Developing routines and working hard this year cheering with the varsity squad at the region and state games and at all of the B-team games, the girls have learned to work well together. They have been successful in getting the crowd excited at every event!

The B-team Cheerleaders drop their pom-poms to start another cheer that will help build up the students Cavalier spirit at a pep rally before another basketball game.

"Raise your hands if your sure!" Freshman Barbara Copeland laughingly tries to hide her Secret while she rests before a home basketball game. No one ever said cheerleading was easy.

After mastering a difficult stunt Kelly McGoldrick, Danielle Faulk, and Courtney Dawson pose for another photograph with smiles to show off their abundant MDS spirit and pride.

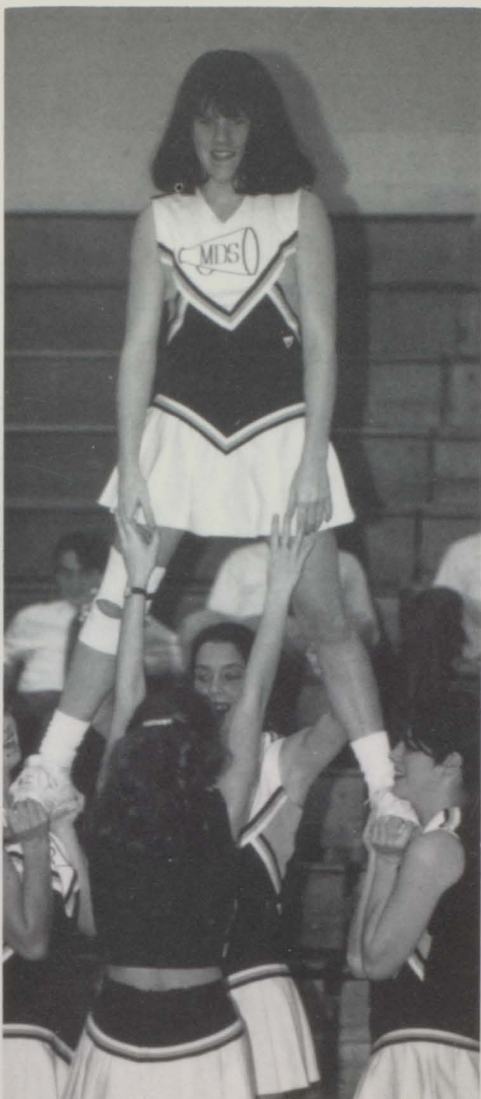

"Lollipop, lollipop ooohh laaa laaa lollipop." Freshman Brook Etchason takes a much needed break from her lollipop routine to have a snack before one of the many spunky pep rallies.

"Okay guys, if you drop me, I'll scream!" Junior Aimee Ridings is held up precariously during a halftime stunt in which the great Cavalier cheerleaders are in perfect form.

"Aieaa, Aieaa, so glad to meet ya!" Senior Aieaa Lucas leads the squad in a halftime cheer during a crucial basketball game. Aieaa was one of the two seniors on the squad.

The Varsity Cheerleaders started off this year with their tryouts in April. Then, with Ashley Amos as their sponsor, the squad attended a three day camp at the University of Georgia. There they learned many ideas to motivate the players and fans. While involved with the football and soccer teams, they also managed to find the time to put on many pep rallies. Basketball season soon arrived and with the assistance of eight stuntmen, who got that the Cavalier spirit roaring, these spunky girls pumped us up all year.

"Come on everybody, let's kick it!" Sophomore Brooke Benford leads the cheerleaders in dancing on down with another, always crowd pleasing, cheer from the cavalier squad.

The 94-95 Varsity cheerleaders were: (Top) Jessica Stone, Melissa Kaplan, Merita Evans, Aieaa Lucas; (Middle) Amiee Ridings, Brandi Carr, Brooke Benford; (Bottom) Nettie Pierce, Jessica Perez

Redefining the very meaning of pep, captain of the cheerleading squad, junior Jessica Perez leads the Cavs in a cheer and rouses the spirits of both the crowds and the players.

Home Run Time

It was so close! Even though the MDS Varsity Baseball team was defeated in the second round of state, they ended their season with an outstanding record of 16 wins and only 7 losses. With only four retiring seniors and two freshmen currently starting on the varsity team, hopes for the season to come are high. Under the leadership of Coaches Tony and Chester Pierce and Coach Greg Brooking, the baseball team practiced countless hours to improve their skill and become the winning team that their fans saw on the field. Hours of batting practice, running, stretching, pop flies, and grounders began to pay off when our fantastic Cavalier team broke through the barrier and began a winning streak proving that the Cavalier winning spirit, for which we are so well known just can't be stopped. When asked his opinion of the past season, Coach Tony Pierce summed it up when he said, "We had a great group of guys on the team, the best I've ever had. They played a good season and I wish it hadn't ended so soon!"

Whenever the Cavaliers are in a pinch, they can always count on sophomore Pat Yoe to make the catch. In a crucial game, Pat scoops the ball up and whips it to home plate for the out.

In the midst of a spectacular double play, freshman third baseman Britton Lockhart prepares to throw the baseball to first base to end the game against the Stratford Eagles.

Run, John-boy, Run! In the bottom of the ninth inning, Senior John Herndon makes a mad dash to third base in a desperate attempt to beat the pitcher's wild throw to the base.

"Hey, I've got it you guys!" The fans looked on in awe as junior Keith Hatcher makes another spectacular catch of an easy pop fly in the outfield to end the important region game.

"I've had a great time, and I can't wait for next year"
— Britton Lockhart

Practice always makes perfect. Senior Jason Balkcom demonstrates the devotion that it take to become a talented athlete which made him one of this year's baseball team leaders.

"Okay slugger, we know that you can hit it over the fence!" Junior Cody Hale takes his turn at the plate in the hopes of making the home run that will win the game for the Cavaliers.

Time to Hit it!

The Junior Varsity baseball team had a rocky season, but as the saying goes "it doesn't matter whether you win or lose, but how you play the game!" The boys were enthusiastic and tough and never gave up before the game was over. The Mt. de Sales win at FPD in the beginning of the season gave the team spirit and confidence. Next year promises to be an improvement and the team is sure to better their record. With experienced coaches and players, next year the JV baseball team will be tough to beat!

Gritting his teeth in determination, sophomore Trey Butts prepares to fire off another powerful hit and bring in a runner from third base, providing a much needed run for the team.

First Time Ever

The 1994-95 school year marked MDS's first ever C-team baseball team. This year's team had a lot of work ahead of them as they prepared to learn to work together. They grew together as a maturing group and gained valuable experience that they came take with them throughout their high school career. They secured a winning season and are sure to improve on this even more with a more experienced team next year. They consistently displayed a positive, winning attitude on and off the playing field, and with talent such as this, the future of baseball at MDS indeed looks bright.

With a look of deep concentration, freshman Mike Kusar demonstrates his fantastic form while practicing those tee offs that he is so famous for within the Mt. de Sales golf team.

Tee Time

Displaying the form that Mount de Sales golfers are so famous for, Freshman Thomas Williamson addresses the ball and makes a fantastic drive down the fairway at Barrington Hall.

The 1994-95 golf team has been a learning experience for everyone involved. The team was a young one, consisting of only one junior, the rest consisting of freshman. They worked slowly and steadily to improve their scores, enabling them to better contend with the opposing teams. Most of the matches that they lost were lost by only a few strokes and they worked hard to improve over the season. They have gained valuable experience this year and are sure to be a dominating force in the years to come.

Where's the ball? I don't see it anywhere, do you? Mike Kusar and Chad Cavendar laugh about the joke they played on their teammate, who attempts to tee off without the ball.

It's a lot easier without the windmill to get in your way! Junior Jason Malloy shows off his incredible putting abilities while teammates Chad Cavender and Mathis Coxon look in awe.

Time to Serve

The Mount de Sales boy's tennis team for the 1994-95 school year enjoyed a great season. They worked tirelessly to improve their backhand, serves, and all other aspects of the game. Much of their success was due to the leadership of senior Andy Wilhelm who racked up his third state championship, surprising no one. His leadership will be sorely missed but the lessons he provided for his teammates will remain. The team had a tough year and worked hard to pull together for a very successful season.

With a form that only a three time champion such as himself could obtain, Andy Wilhelm displays one of those killer serves that are feared and respected by opponents and fans.

"Whaaaaaaaal!" Junior David Stahl shows off his new karate moves after accomplishing his first, but definitely not his last, outstanding Ace of the season and went on to win the match.

"I got it!" Freshman Brooks Coates lunges to reach the ball with an awesome backhand in an attempt to outsmart the opposition and astound anyone catching this breathtaking move.

"Just call me 'cool-guy' Matt!" With a look of deep concentration on his face, Junior Matt Gottschalk will go to any length to make contact with ball and get it over the net.

(Top) Andy Meadows, David Stahl, Nathan Cooper, Matt Gottschalk, Reeves Coates, Andy Wilhelm; (Bottom) Philip Cheshire, Jimmy Livingston, Brooks Coates, Cobb Pearson, Peter Jacobson

Vouging or serving, you make the call! Sophomore Leigh Cabasares perfects the killer serve that makes her so feared by her many opponents and makes a great pose as well.

Time for Love

If you hit it any lower I'll need a golf club to return this serve!'' Sophomore Kristy Willis stoops down to stop the ball, proving she won't let anything get in her way.

The 1994-95 year has been an eventfull one for the Varsity girl's tennis team. The team has practiced faithfully to improve their skills, spending hours on their serves, backhand, and slicing hits. The hours of work spent paid off. In the words of Sarah Hope, ''If anything, we learned how important it is to work together, not just in practice but also in matches.'' The team gained valuable experience for the years to come. Since they are only losing one senior, the prospects for next year look bright.

''Oh, please. Is that the best that you can do?'' Junior Katy Crosby shows that she has no trouble returning any serve as she hits the ball with one hand behind her back.

Freshman Beth Bollinger lobs the ball over the net as she finishes warming up before a big match. She demonstrates the fantastic form that makes her so feared by her opponents.

Time to Fly

The girls track team had an outstanding season. Experience, speed and strength were the qualities this team possessed. Training season brought daily practices endured in all kinds of weather. All their work paid off. The team posted in the top placement at all their track meets and did well in region and state. Vicki Greene set the school record in the discus and shot put. Continuing her winning performance, she went on to capture the state shot put championship title. She put it well: "We all loved it."

Can she make it? Can she make it? Yes! She's over! Senior Nicole Dixon flies over the pole, successfully completing her jump, ending her senior year with a great landing.

Take a deep breath, get set, and go! Senior Merita Evans demonstrates those fantastic track skills that have made her a driving force on the track team since her freshman year.

She flies over those hurdles with the greatest of ease! Junior Melissa Kaplan has worked hard to make it look so easy, and her work paid off, bringing her all the way to state.

"Look out state, cause here I come!" Sophomore Vicki Greene proved that she wouldn't let anyone stop that Cavalier winning spirit by taking first place in state for the shotput.

"Yea, I got it!!" Chad Timms shows his approval of the hand off from Frank Mummert while practicing for the 4x100 meter relay. Chad was a key factor in this year's team.

Time to Run

"Step, step, step ... JUMP!" Senior Micheal Bronson shows his concentration face as he runs the 110 meter hurdles at Tattnall. Mike also did very well in the long and triple jump.

With experienced runners and a new coach no one was really sure what to expect out of the boys track team this year. With hard work they not only took region runners-up, they made it to the state track meet in Albany. The 4x100 relay team of Frank Mummert, Anwar Stubbs, Chad Timms and Theo Mack took third in state and the 4x400 relay team of Mummert, Mack, Timms and Greg Burney took second in state. Chad Timms broke the 400 meter dash school record and Frank Mummert broke the 300 meter hurdles school record.

"It's all in the arm movement!" Senior Theo Mack uses proper form to push himself forward in the 100 yard dash. Theo also ran the 200 yard dash as well as both relay teams.

(Front) Frank Mummert, Teddy Katner, Anwar Stubbs, Theo Mack, Carlos Denson, Greg Burney, Harrison Richie, Warren Stramiello, Kerry McLauren, James Taylor, Narreir Williams (Mid.) Jay Roberts, Matt Defore, Mike Chow, Franklin Mack, Mike Bronson, Andrew Lizek, Jeremy Wisdom, Peter Jacobson, Allen Luton, Kenneth Van (Top) Chad Timms, Jamey Huser, Theo Worrell, Jesse Fortson, Lamar Alday, Adam Siler, C.J. Butts, Chris Allen, P.J. Peterson, Thomas Leslie, Brad Smith

"On your mark, get set ... Stop!" Freshman Franklin Mack looks utterly confused at that last command. Franklin ran the 100 yard dash and was on the second 4x100 meter relay team.

Long Time Coming

The 1994-95 school year has marked the beginning of a new era at Mount de Sales, with the creation of the first ever girls' varsity soccer team. The girls had a successful first season with an outstanding record of 10-1-2. They went all the way to become one of the final eight in state, only to be stopped short with heart-wrenching loss from Augusta Prep in the state tournament. Many girls were familiar with the game, having played in recreation leagues for several years. For others, the game of soccer was entirely new. The girls worked extremely hard to learn all about the game and to improve their skills, and this effort paid off. It was obvious that this team was a formidable force, as was shown by their fine team record. This year marked the first year that Coach Tam Smith coached soccer, and it proved to be a learning experience. This first year was a great year for the girls' soccer team. It is obvious to opponents and fans alike that next year our girls won't be stopped until they take state.

It's almost too easy, like taking candy from a baby. Junior Tee Epps demonstrates the ease and finesse with which she handles the ball as she leaves her opponent in the dust.

Run her over, Buffy! Sophomore Christina Snyder shows no mercy as she takes the ball from her First Presbyterian opponent showing there is just no way to stop a Cavalier.

Proving that the game of soccer is not just a kick in the grass to her, freshman Patty Bieger easily maneuvers the ball past her opponents making her way closer to the goal.

Junior Melissa Alverson shows us just how she kicks it! She shows off the winning style that led her to be both an All-State soccer player and the second highest scorer on the team.

"We really came together as a team and I enjoyed playing/" — Patty Bierger

Okay Brooke, show us all how it's done. Sophomore Brooke Benford manages to out-smart her oncoming opponent and block her from stealing the ball away from Cavalier possession.

Look out you can't stop a Tee in motion. There she goes again, leading scorer Tee Epps prepares to score yet again helping to secure a 6-0 defeat against FPD.

"Meeting of the Minds" Coach Slocumb, Coach Davis, and Coach Ken meet before football practice to plan what they want to do during the next practice. Their leadership is one of the many reasons for the Cavalier's success.

Mr. Brooking proves that he is always prepared as he gets his lesson plans in order as his Middle School students await the beginning of yet another truly interesting day of class.

"You got WHAT as an answer?" Mr. Midkiff sits and wonders what went wrong and if there is another way to go about solving that particular problem.

Faculty

Time Keepers

The Faculty is the cornerstone of knowledge at Mount de Sales. These teachers, from a variety of diverse backgrounds, converge to make MDS one of the best schools in the nation. They devote their time and effort to the enrichment of the learning environment. Much is owed to these teachers.

During one of their regularly scheduled faculty meetings, teachers discuss items concerning their department and ways of helping the students.

"The finest things in life can also be yours!" Mrs. Bentley gives us her two million dollar smile while dining on her extravagant lunch and Coke.

Time to Listen

The 1994-1995 MDS faculty possesses qualifications that enable them to enrich education. Students benefit from a caring faculty, diverse teaching styles, new classes, hands-on experience, and various extra-curricular activities. Teachers began the year with new classes and earned the respect of their students. The administration and janitorial staff provide MDS with efficient services and a beautiful campus. During the school year, Mount de Sales can boast of a faculty dedicated to education.

"One more red mark and I'll have broken a world record for the most ink wasted in one day!" Mrs. Sinksen shows her no holds-barred approach to proofreading copy. The competition between editors and her was gruesome yet fair. Her editorial skills were essential to the perfection of the yearbook.

"I can't take it anymore! It all just doesn't add up!" Valerie Rodriguez discovers a yearbook secret: nothing EVER comes out right. Through many stress-releasing screams and bottles of Tylenol (extra-strength!), she finally managed to finish the layout and get all the seniors in the right place.

One Last Time

We stand on the boundary of what is to come,
Of all that has happened and all that's been done.

Though childhood has brought us this moment's reward,
I'm too young to carry mortality's sword.

I'm safe in the castle that memory has built,
Not staring sown tomorrow atip on the hilt.

For when we were children there wasn't a doubt
That the world would adore us-yet now we're without

Such noble belief in the things so untold,
In all of the promises yet to unfold.

But a dreamer's great evening lasts only so long:
There's a much stronger drumbeat enchanting us on.

To temper the tempest and make our time last
And become the legends that trumpets shall blast.

-Jeanie Dizon

"Look into my eyes!" Sophomore Mac Oppy proves to the world that his unique method of sleeping during school is fool-proof.

"Don't hate us because we are beautiful..."
Middle schoolers Jeffrey Crumbley and Brett
Turner show us how to look as good as we feel.

"Who could ask for anything more!?" Seniors
Shannon Wagner and Rachel Parks immerse themselves in the atmosphere of the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

"You can't knock us down! Na, na, na, na, na!" The middle school pyramid crew is convinced that their pyramid is the strongest in the entire world and that it will stand the test of time.

"Hey look! This is my little troll...on a stick!" Sophomore DeAnna Yates and ventriloquist Shauna Williams bring their little "friendly" troll doll back to life while relaxing before school in homeroom.

"Hey, look! It's my fair cast members!" The cast of My Fair Lady practice hard to get their performance perfect. The MDS players put on a great show under the direction of Justin Golding.

"MDS students are worth the time spent!"
-Mrs. Weston

"Aurevoir! Adios! Adieu! Goodbye! Goodbye now, goodbye!" Seniors C.J. Butts, Wesley Cobb and Chad Timms show us their individual styles as they give a final wave, sharing their pent-up sentiments, which are basically, "It was real-and it was fun but...yeah it was real fun!"

"I think I can...almost...can't quite...just a little bit more...yes! I reached it! Finally!" Happy to reach her goal, junior Sandy Reddy rises to new heights as she signs her name on "the book" as a new inductee into the Our Lady of Mercy Chapter of the National Honor Society.

"Lareau, your chemistry grade depends on this! I am NOT going to get dunked again!" Mr. MacLachlan shivers on Positive Attitudes Day.

Time for a Last Look

The 1994-1995 school year brought about tears and disappointments as well as smiles and triumphs, all of which made up lasting memories and unforgettable times for the Mount de Sales students. Although there is never enough time to hold a moment in your hand and share all of it with another person, we can remember all of the little incidents and episodes that made this year so different. From new friends to sad goodbyes, the times we have spent together will remain a part of every one of us long after our high school years have passed. Mount de Sales has meant academics, athletics, social activities, and friendships. We have gained knowledge and understanding in all aspects of our lives. Our education has not stopped at the classroom door. These times truly will be remembered as some of the best in our lives.

"And one, two!" Senior Kim Jackson and Junior Jamey Huser dance at the Valentine's Dance. Must be a new way to relieve editors stress.

"This little light of mine..I'm going to let it shine!" During the Candlelight Carol Service, Sister Helen passes along a tradition.

"We always knew that Megan Claire was level-headed!" Senior Megan Claire Hester shows off the talent that she learned at the senior retreat.

"Oh! Say can you see, by the dawn's early light..." Patriotic seniors Russ Jacobs and Michael Bradshaw display their dedication and spirit in hopes of being "all that they can be" as 1995 MDS graduates.

"Now this is what you call is atmosphere!" Andy Wilhelm, Cladie Washburn, Adam Siler, and his date enjoy eating their before-prom dinner in the trapezoid under the breezeway with Leo's--to go.

"I don't need spring break in the sun! I wanna see history!" These students comprised the loudest cheering section at a girls' soccer game.

"I shall miss this place more than I can say"
-Kathleen Carrigan

"I can't believe I'm letting him do this to me!" Senior John Bruss never thought that he would see the day that he would let another man put more color on his cheeks. Fellow senior Eric Ford concentrates on the job at hand. A positive attitude day wouldn't be the same without face painting.

"Help! I'm stuck...and I can't get down! How do you get off this thing?" Freshman Jeremy Wisdom looks fearfully at the ground below him in a useless attempt to get off the Velcro Wall without hurting himself. "Where are your friends when you really need them?"

"Look Gary! It's a plaque and it's got your name on it!" Mr. Dockrell recognizes senior Gary Johnson at the senior honors program.

"Yes, I said it's great to be a Cavalier!" The seniors, happy to be graduating at last, parade around the school on their last day of classes.

For the Last Time

Senior Kelly Bloodworth can't wait to graduate. She is so anxious that she has already flipped her tassel. Kate Stewart just looks on in amazement.

"Where's Waldo in the sea of smiling faces?" With all the requisite activities out of the way, the senior class of 1995 exuberantly celebrates the waning hours of THEIR day. The stress and deadlines for all of the ceremonies have been met, leaving only the open-ended rejoicing and congratulating.

"We witness to MERCY when we reverence the dignity of each person, create a spirit of hospitality, and pursue integrity of word and deed in our lives." Jennifer Wisdom was the recipient of the Sisters of Mercy Award, which is given to a student who exhibits dedication to serving others through service.

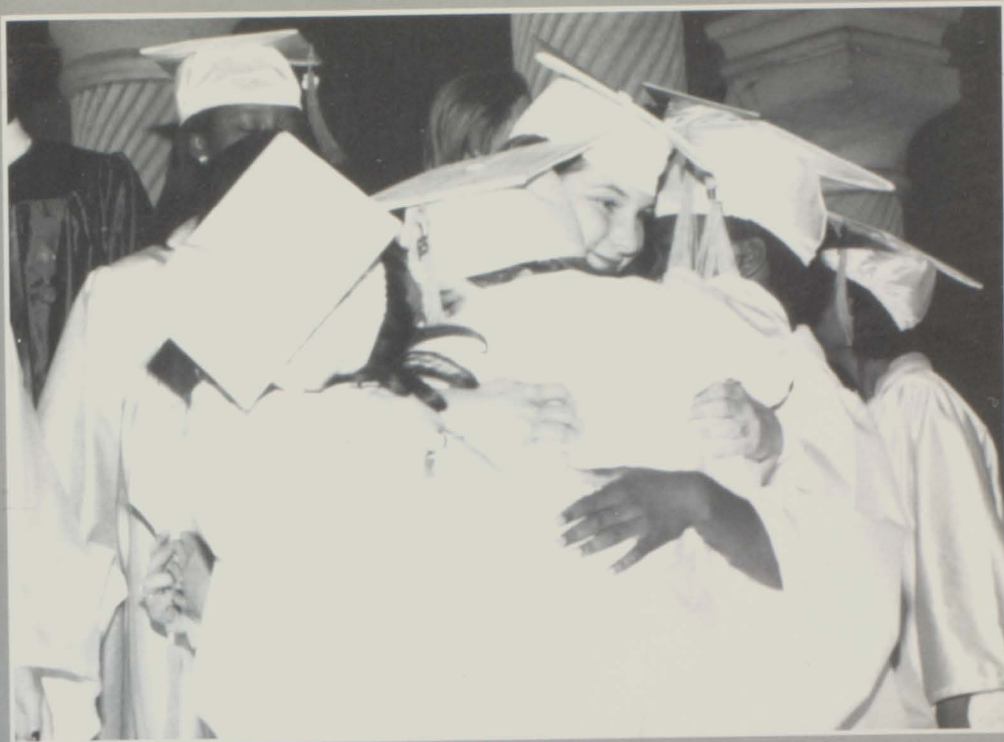

Besides offering the cup to Jason Staples, Sister Rosina also offers her prayers for his success as well as the success of all the other seniors.

"Friends until the end!" Seniors Russ Jacobs, Chris Balkcom, and Patt Dugas share a moment at the reception after the Baccalaureate Mass.

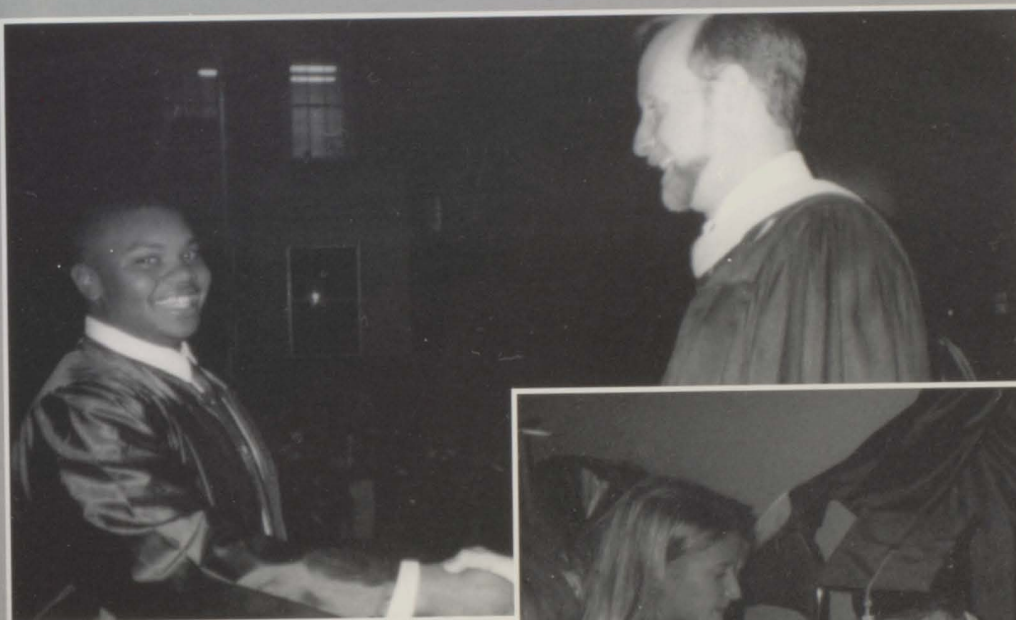

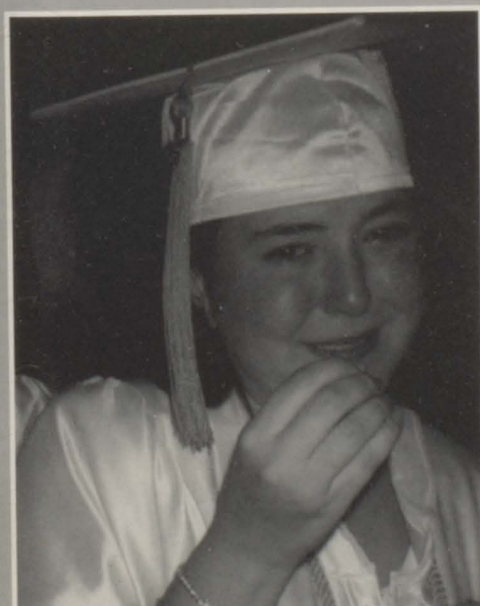

"I'm going to miss you all!" Seems to be the sentiment expressed by these senior girls. The day has finally arrived, and it seems like there was so much more we wanted to share.

"So is this a truce, Mr. McLachlan?" P.J. Peterson shakes hands with his physics teacher (Mr. McLachlan) after graduation ceremonies. It looks like these two will miss each other.

"I'm checking to see that they spelled my name correctly."-ponders Jay Roberts while Erin Wood serenely scans the evening's program to check exactly where in the schedule the senior would receive their diplomas. The musings of these seniors reflect the diversity present in the Class of 1995.

"I can't believe it's actually over...the year's went by so quickly..." A tearful Marie Brown, clasping her newly received diploma, leaves the Macon City Auditorium doorway to greet well-wishers and friends as they share this special moment. The tears and laughter were plentiful that entire evening.

Graduation 1995

Monica & Billy 4-Ever! HA HA HA

Hey Miss!

This is really sad!! It's our last year.
Well, I guess it's good!! We just won't even see each<sup>other</sup>, except for Christmas / Thanksgiving Holidays. I will always remember you as one of my special best friends. We've had so many memorable times together.

Hey! How about a blast from the past?! Okay - 8th grade: John Robinson, (1st saw me?)
staying the weekend / or night with me while your parents were away, and many laughs.

9th grade: Lucy Cooper's, late-night gossips, you began driving, the Clan (9-10), and many laughs.

10th grade: the majority started driving, Lucy Cooper's again, more "summer-parties", Burger King,

Kroger, Jody, Jared, Frank, Derek, Chris, closet conversations, and many laughs.

11th grade: everybody's driving, Chris, Chriss., (HA! NERD!) Jared Casey, Attaway, Allen!, study groups, skank red-necks taking us out to dinner, stolen hubcap, and many laughs.

12th grade: Seth, Derek (again), "7th and 8th hole" at Idle Hour Golf Course, V-Dogs vs. Non V-Dogs at Lindsay's, and many laughs! If you've noticed, we've laughed a lot! That's why you're my best friend and I love you!

Ps. - Too bad there weren't any "great memories"
at Trudy's house?
Huh?

♥ ya like a sis,
Patricia
!!
